Lava Lake Crash Kills Two

Cleanout Of Zone Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk has proposed strengthening the International Control Commission in Viet Nam to clean out the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam and safeguard the border of neighboring Cambodia.

"We would be glad to see the ICC move to clear the demilitarized zone of all military action" and to "assure the neutrality and territorial integrity of Cambodia," Rusk told a press conference.

At the same time, Rusk did not rule out the possibility that U.S. ground forces might range into the six-mile-wide neutral zone between North and South if U.S. commanders find this necessary.

NEW PROMINENCE
The demilitarized zone and the role of the ICC has assumed new prominence in the Southeast Asia conflict following American bombings in the heavily-jungled western part of the 50-mile strip.

Referring specifically to a Soviet protest note alleging a Russian ship at Haiphong, the North Vietnamese port, had been hit by U.S. planes, Rusk denied the American craft had struck anything but oil targets. He said the United States refused to accept the Moscow note because "the abusiveness of its wording flouted diplomatic practice."

Pilot Dies Plane Safe

TOKYO (UPI)—The pilot of a KLM Royal Dutch Airways DC8 jet liner died at the controls early today seconds before the big jet was to touch down at Tokyo airport. A fast-acting co-pilot wrested the controls from the dead man to avert an almost certain crash.

Officials said the plane, en route from Amsterdam to Manila, had 56 passengers aboard.

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was struck with a rock and a white youth was wounded by a knife thrown at King as a riot erupted on Chicago's southwest side late Friday.

The knife was hurled as King, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, led 600 demonstrators on a march through a racially-tense middle class neighborhood.

Cherry bombs and rocks were thrown among the marchers by screaming, cursing, jeering residents of all-white Chicago Lawn. The marchers moved slowly down the street as thousands of residents rioted.

The white youth cut by the knife was taken away in a police car. Police said he was 16 or 17 years old.

STAB WOUND
The youth was bleeding badly from a stab wound in the neck. Hundreds of white residents sat in the street in front of the marchers. A cordon of policemen formed a flying wedge to charge through the seated groups.

Several persons were arrested. Fights broke out in and near the marchers as the demonstrators moved along a tree-lined street, six abreast.

FLAGS WAVED
Some 250 white teenagers moved ahead of the march, carrying large confederate and U.S. flags.

More than 1,200 policemen attempted to control the white persons.

King was struck on the right side of the head as he emerged from a car in Marquette Park to line up the marchers in a demonstration against alleged housing discrimination.

"It hurts, but it's not an injury," King shouted over the screaming crowd. He was not treated.

Shouts of "shoot him" were directed at King and the marchers were bombarded with missiles.

A barrage of rocks rained on the march from a bungalow and police charged into the house.

BRIEF FIGHT
Thousands of jeering white persons swarmed into the park as the demonstrators massed. Earlier, demonstrators and white youths fought briefly in the park after 30 white persons forced a marcher's car to the side of the road and tossed garbage into it.

The Chicago Lawn area erupted in violence Sunday as King's aides led 350 marchers into the Irish-Polish-Lithuanian middle-class neighborhood. Sixty persons were injured, 17 were arrested and 30 of the marchers' cars were burned.

'ONLY WAY'
White teenagers carried a sign reading: "The only way to end slums — exterminate Niggers."

White youths drove around in cars decorated with confederate flags and Ku Klux Klan signs, honking their horns and yelling "white power."

Police Superintendent O. W. Wilson earlier had issued an order holding the entire police department day shift overtime. The city has a 10,000-man police department. Wilson did not indicate how many were on duty.

Police Capt. Thomas Noone, chief of the patrol division, said about 500 policemen were deployed in the area — "maybe more if we need them."

CNR Changes Time-Tables

MONTREAL (CP)—The CNR announced Friday it will introduce time-tables using the 24-hour clock system, beginning Oct. 30.

Labor's Popularity Plunge Said 'Without Precedent'

LONDON (LAT)—The popularity of the ruling Labor Party fell precipitously this week following savage deflationary action taken to fight Britain's economic crisis.

The National Opinion Poll found Labor's lead over the Conservatives had dropped in two weeks from 16.3 to 9.1 per cent.

More striking was a later Gallup Poll. From a 14.4 per cent victory in the March election and an 18 per cent lead in May, Gallup reported a statistically insignificant lead of one half per cent Friday. The fall over three months was "without precedent" in 20 years of polling experience, Gallup said.

U.S. Bombs Blast Haiphong's Radar

SAIGON (AP)—United States fighter-bombers attacked oil deposits and radar sites in the Haiphong area Friday and Sunday.

Simultaneously, air force planes attacked radar sites 20 to 15 miles northwest of the port city. Results of the strikes were not announced.

Meanwhile, one of the largest U.S. ground forces ever massed in Viet Nam swept the central highlands Friday, seeking North Vietnamese regulars holed up in jungles or pulling back toward Cambodia.

At elements of the 10,000-man U.S. force manoeuvred in helicopters, bombers blasted suspected enemy positions in the Chu Phong mountains four miles from the Cambodia border.

The purpose of the action was to prevent a monsoon drive. Somewhere in the hills and jungles, the Americans believed, are three North Vietnamese regiments.

Earlier, B-52s bombed targets in the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam. It was the fourth raid on the zone since Saturday.

Peking radio said the North Vietnamese government protested the raids Thursday and Friday to the International Control Commission of Canada, India and Poland.

U.S. planes in waves struck in North Viet Nam on this second anniversary of the first air raids on the North, but targets were not announced. Peking radio said two U.S. planes were shot down Friday in raids near the port of Haiphong.

North Viet Nam has shot down 1,287 American planes since the U.S. began air operations over the North two years ago, the New China news agency reported.

The agency said the total includes 48 downed over the North Viet Nam port of Haiphong—two of them Friday—and 21 over the capital, Hanoi.

B.C.'s Affluence 'Seen in People'

VANCOUVER (CP)—An economist from eastern Canada said Friday he sees prosperity on the streets of Vancouver.

Dr. Anthony Wintermans, associate professor of economics at St. Francis Xavier University in Nova Scotia, said: "The difference in affluence between B.C. and the Maritimes is very, very obvious and you can even see it in the people on the streets."

Dr. Wintermans said B.C.'s development is staggering. He said his own province has a "retarded economy" but is developing methods of dealing with its problems.

Bennett Calls Sept. 12 Election

'PEOPLE DESERVE CHANCE TO SPEAK'

By H. L. JONES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett Friday night called a provincial election for Sept. 12, the fifth since his Social Credit government first came to power in British Columbia in 1952.

He also announced that one of his major cabinet ministers, Health Minister Eric Martin, will not run because of ill health.

Mr. Bennett said at a press conference following his reading of a 13-minute election announcement that the opposition parties do not want an election. He said Robert Strachan, leader of the New Democratic Party, and Liberal leader Ray

Perrault were critical of an election at this time "because they have found the people satisfied with this government."

"But we think the people should have a chance to speak."

NEW SEAT PLAN

He said this was particularly so in view of the redistribution of seats carried out at the last session increasing the legislature to 55 from 52 members. Standing at dissolution was Social Credit 32, NDP 14, Liberals 5. There was one vacant seat, North Okanagan, which had been held by Social Credit George McLeod, who died last December.

Mr. Bennett thus capped the province's 100th birthday year, and avoided an election in Canada's centennial year.

MANDATE NEEDED

In doing so he called for a "mandate to keep B.C. moving ahead." He said Social Credit had taken B.C. "out of a post-war rut and into the forefront of North American progress."

"A new seven-year plan" for further industrial expansion, and an acceleration of urban and rural development, was pledged.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault earlier said Bennett's expected election call was for the purpose of "perpetuating his own pompous image."

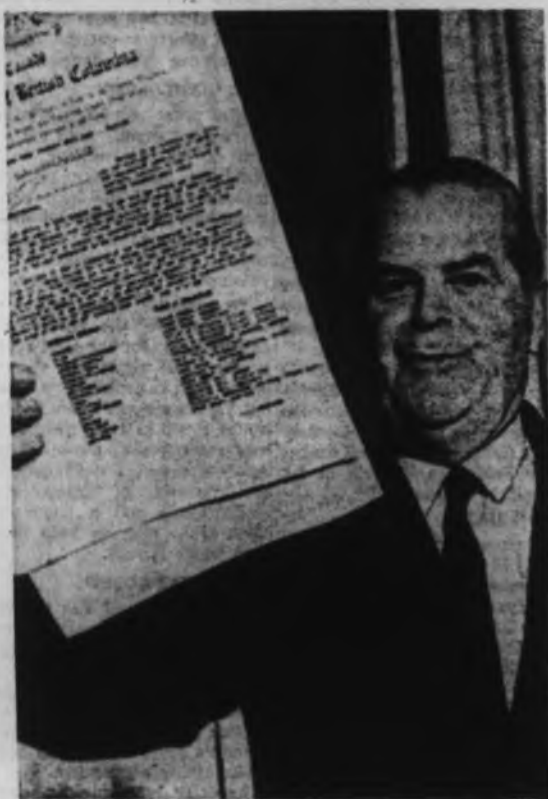

'INSECURE PREMIER'

Robert Strachan, leader of the opposition New Democratic Party, said it was "the act of an insecure premier leading an unstable government."

Conservative president Stuart Fleming called it "an exercise in the unnecessary."

It will be the fourth provincial election in Canada this year. The others were in Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and Quebec.

'Human Betterment' Campaign Promise By Social Credit

By TERRY ROBERTS

The lid is off a pot of election speculation that has been boiling in British Columbia for six months.

Premier Bennett declared the pot ready Friday night and presented his menu to voters: if you want to taste the goodies, put in your order at the polls Sept. 12.

Mr. Bennett has not yet presented his full menu—he will probably save most of his tidbits for the campaign trail—but announcements earlier this year indicate a trend toward what he terms "human betterment."

This program is a switch that began during the last legislature away from his former emphasis on highways and economic development. The new program involves hospitals, medical care, education and other like fields.

'Our Government Non-Partisan'

He said earlier that the only election issue is "the type of chaos they have in Ottawa which is built on partisanship — everybody supports our government because it is non-partisan."

The three major parties have been geared for an election for months, though Mr. Bennett's Social Credit party has yet to hold any nominating conventions.

Starving Primitives Riot In New Guinea Jungles

JAKARTA (AP)—Indonesia's jungled, primitive West Irian has been rocked by riots and near-revolt serious enough to send Foreign Minister Adam Malik to the scene as a mediator, reliable sources reported Friday.

He leaves next Friday for the Indonesian half of the huge island of New Guinea, an area formerly known as West New Guinea and taken over from the Dutch in 1962 after several months of fighting. Australia controls the other half.

Informants here gave this report: The people of West Irian began rioting because of a scarcity of food.

Special forces soldiers were deployed to West Irian about six weeks ago to help put down the fighting.

Reports reaching Jakarta said no food supplies of any consequence had been sent into the jungled area in three months. Tribesmen living in the jungle may survive but town dwellers were reported hard hit. West Irian has a population of about 700,000.

One newspaper reported that a single plate of rice was sold in the village of Mindipana for 450 rupiahs (about $4.50 at open market rates).

Reports that the fighting and rebellious mood of the people are serious appeared to be supported by reliable confirmation that Amalik would visit the area as a mediator.

The reports of trouble came amid other reports of severe food shortages from the island of Bali and along the chain of smaller islands from Java to Sumatra. Unconfirmed reports said several hundred have died from a combination of starvation and smallpox epidemics in eastern Bali, Lombok and Timor.

Students have levelled strong criticisms at the government of these areas for failing to protect and provide for the people.

Bookie, Pals Become Cripple's Angels

LONDON (AP)—Bookie Joseph Smith and his friends came to the rescue Thursday night of a widowed polio victim who was fined £2 ($6) for driving her children to their babysitter in her one-seat invalid carriage. Smith and his friends raised enough money to buy Fred Blyth a five-seat car and have it converted so it can be driven by hands alone.

A driving school in nearby Bracknell, where Mrs. Blyth and Smith live, promised her free instructions so she can qualify for a licence to operate her new car.

And Will Field started a campaign in Newbury for funds to service the car as long as Mrs. Blyth keeps it.

"The kindness of it all," said Mrs. Blyth, "Why, I just broke down and cried."

Mrs. Blyth said she had to work six hours a day as a secretary to support her children and had to leave them with a friend who lives two miles from her. She said she had little money and has asked the government for a disabled person's car but was told she could only qualify for the one-seater carriage.

OPEN SIX DAYS EACH WEEK—FRIDAY NIGHTS TILL 9

Striking Steelworkers Battle with Policemen

HAMILTON (CP)—A surging crowd of 500 fist-swinging steelworkers fought with 70 police officers and security guards Friday in the most severe clash during a day of violence at the strikebound Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. plant.

Police said 11 of the wildcat strikers were carted off in police wagons after the fight, bringing the total to 29 arrested during the day.

The brawl, which attracted a crowd of nearly 2,000 workers before it ended, started soon after officials of the United Steelworkers of America (USWA) announced a general membership meeting Sunday.

A union spokesman said the meeting was called in an effort to end the wildcat walkout which started Wednesday night and has idled almost 17,000 workers. Time and place of the meeting was not disclosed.

The picket-line violence flared just before 3 p.m. when one striker yelled "Soab!" at a Steco supervisor who was driving into the plant through the main gates.

Wilson Wins Round

By WALTER DAVIS
LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's Socialist government, harassed by labor unions and its own left wing, won a key round Friday in its battle for compulsory powers to freeze wages and prices.

After two all-night sittings in 48 hours—during which members napped on cots in the corridors between votes—a House of Commons committee completed detailed study of the legislation at midday Friday.

This cleared the way for what the government now hopes will be smooth passage through the Commons next week and then the House of Lords.

The bill confers powers to be used if a voluntary freeze fails, thus imperiling the government's policy of deflating the economy to save the pound. Breaches would be punishable by fines up to £500 ($1,500).

The government, which has a majority of 95 in the 630-seat Commons, is anxious to obtain action on the bill before Parliament recesses for its summer vacation next Friday. Because of angry opposition aroused by the legislation and the government's tactics, delaying tactics were feared.

However, police managed to restore order after about 10 minutes. Many of the strikers had been drinking in neighborhood hotels and poured out to join in the scrapping.

Airlines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any final congressional action on the U.S. airlines strike appeared at least a week away Friday after President Johnson's administration declined either to endorse or reject a measure to order striking machinists back to work.

The latest statement of the administration's stand was given the commerce committee of the House of Representatives by Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz. He said he thinks Johnson would sign a strike-halting bill, but Congress will have to make the decision whether one is justified.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers (Dem. W.Va.) expressed the committee's hope the five strike-bound airlines and the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists would eliminate the need for congressional action by negotiating a settlement. But Wirtz said there is little chance for meaningful negotiation while the matter is before Congress.

Expressmen

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking handlers of express freight at the CNR in Montreal formally voted Friday night to return to work, starting immediately.

The men included in their vote restitution of a condition that they will stay on the job until Aug. 17, when a strike following the filing of a conciliation report will be legally possible.

The CNR earlier had announced that all embargoes on express freight from Montreal had been removed.

The railway made the announcement as reports came that many of the 1,200 strikers were returning to work.

In Toronto, more than half of the 425 express workers at the 425 express workers at the the CNR's downtown terminal stayed off the job, continuing a second wildcat strike begun Thursday.

CNR express freight traffic between Montreal and Toronto was suspended because of the strike and service to the Atlantic region was reported affected.

Mechanic Abducted

Jet Training Instantaneous

BATH, England (Reuters) — An RAF ground-maintenance officer made a solo flight in a 1,400-mile-an-hour jet fighter by accident, it was disclosed Friday.

The fastest plane he had flown previously was a 130 m.p.h. Chipmunk.

The officer, Wing Cmdr. Walter Holden, 39, climbed into the cockpit of a Lightning jet two weeks ago to make a maintenance check on the plane's engines. He revved the jets and allowed the plane to roll a few yards along the runway. Suddenly the plane surged forward and within seconds was airborne.

Fire engines and ambulances stood by for the crash which seemed inevitable.

Smallwood

Using Labrador's Timber

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A $126,000,000 pulp and paper operation using Labrador timber is to be built in Newfoundland.

Premier Joseph Smallwood told a news conference Friday that the mill is to be built and operated through an arrangement involving Canadian Javelin Ltd., the French firm of ENSA and Champion Paper Co. of the United States.

The heart of the operation will be built on the abandoned United States Harmon Air Force Base facilities at Stephenville.

Melville Pulp and Cellulose

Co. Ltd. will be the operators, and the plant is expected to be producing early in 1969. It will get its pulp from a $10,000,000 chip plant to be built simultaneously near Happy Valley, on Labrador's Lake Melville.

Two 65,000-ton ships costing a total of $16,000,000 are to be built in France to carry the chips to the mill, Mr. Smallwood said. The operation is expected to offset a severe economic threat to the 8,000 residents of Stephenville, who depended mainly on the big U.S. refuelling base for employment before a phase-out began in June that will end with official closure Dec. 31.

About a dozen top officials of the firms concerned were on hand for the announcement, including Javelin President James F. MacNamara and John C. Doyle, major shareholder and a former president of Javelin who now is a director of the firm.

Javelin's interest is through its subsidiary, the Newfoundland and Labrador Corp. (NALCO), which holds timber concessions in Newfoundland.

Prime contractor is ENSA of Paris, wholly-owned within the Schneider-Crescent group. Development costs of about $8,000,000 and $21,000,000 working capital have been allotted.

Premier Smallwood said government guarantees had made the mill possible and a special legislature session might have to be called to ratify these. He would not disclose details of the guarantees.

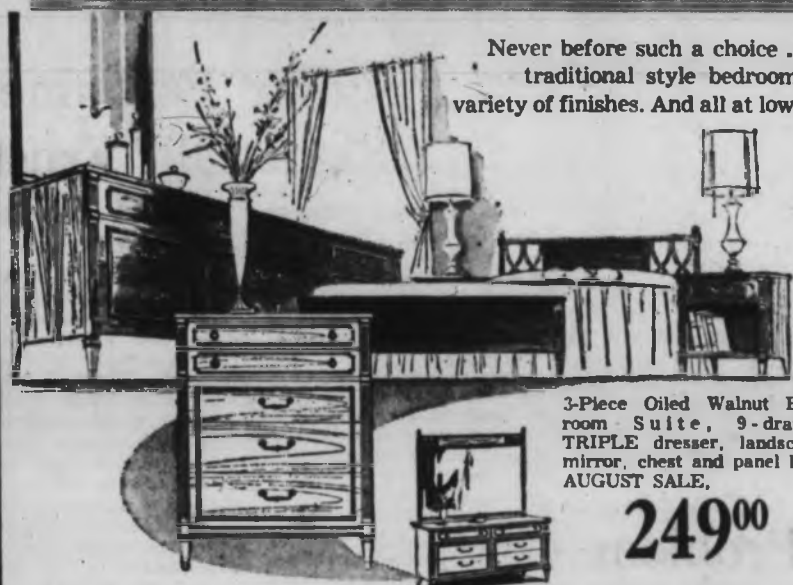

Mr. Smallwood said ENSA would hold a five per cent equity and Champion would get 30 per cent initially, with the opportunity to increase this to 25 per cent within two years. This would leave Canadian Javelin holding 70 per cent.

The Labrador plant will process 1,500 cords a day during the first phase "to be stepped up a year later to 2,200 cords a day," the premier said.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 6, 1966

Up to Parliament

THE NEW CHIEF of the nation's defence staff, General Jean Allard, has announced the formation of an "armed forces council," composed of senior officers at Ottawa and the chiefs of the six extant commands. It will have the job of determining the steps to be carried out in advancing the integration program.

The council's views on the subject will be of importance but he, General Allard, will assume the final responsibility of the recommendations to be made to Defence Minister Hellyer.

Insofar as integration of the forces into a single entity with a common uniform is concerned, obviously there will be no change from this aspect of the defence minister's policy. The general has been strongly in favor of complete unification and his appointment to supreme military authority presages that this concept will not be diluted but carried out in full.

It would seem therefore that if this mistaken idea of a three-in-one service is to be prevented Parliament itself will have to say something about the matter, as it most certainly should.

No word is mentioned for example by General Allard of any role the Commons defence committee might play in the drastic changes that Mr. Hellyer has set in motion. This committee has either been wholly ignored since he first introduced his ideas or has sat without the spirit to make itself heard. Yet as a parliamentary committee supposedly concerned with the armed forces it should have a forceful voice on the subject.

Parliament itself of course has yet to be convinced that this farthest point of integration, the abolition of the identities of the three separate services of navy, army and air force respectively, is either a wise course or promises any increase in the economy or, what is more vital, the efficiency of the country's armed forces. It will be surprising if the Commons submits tamely to this revolutionary change in military practice, a change never contemplated by allied nations with much more experience in the nuances and effectiveness of military affairs.

Unification of the services has yet to run the gamut of parliamentary opinion when the bill to authorize such action is presented to the Commons. It is perhaps too much to expect that the prime minister will allow a "free" vote on the subject, yet this is what should take place in order to lift this controversial integration proposal from the partisan realm of politics.

Marchand's Problem

IMMIGRATION MINISTER JEAN MARCHAND has announced his intention of increasing immigration to Canada from France because, as he so succinctly put it, this nation needs a "better balance as far as languages are concerned."

Though no definite or detailed scheme has yet been set by the minister he has already instructed his department officials to conduct a survey of Canadians—particularly in "French Canada"—to find out why French immigrants "don't feel at home in Canada."

The main reason for the survey, he said, was that he was not sure that French immigrants—as well as immigrants from other countries—were as well received by French Canadians as by other Canadians.

Just what the minister will find out from his survey and what methods he will use to boost immigration from France will be of considerable interest to all Canadians. At the present time under existing policies Frenchmen are given exactly the same opportunities to enter Canada as nationals of any other country.

Under these regulations free entry to Canada is allowed to persons who have sufficient means to maintain themselves until they have secured employment, with the emphasis being on education and skills as the main condition of admissibility, regardless of nationality. Also, Canadians may sponsor entry of close relatives and dependents.

It is difficult to see how Mr. Marchand can make these regulations any more attractive to Frenchmen than they already are—unless he is prepared to offer them special inducements.

However, if he singles out Frenchmen for any kind of extraordinary or preferential treatment it would automatically constitute a form of discrimination against the nationals of any other country who might be interested in bringing their talents, money and families to Canada.

And this, of course, would never do.

Worthy Bestowal

IN A DECISION that will be widely endorsed the city council has decided to pay its highest civic tribute to Hon. Robert Mayhew by conferring upon him the freedom of the city. He will thus join the small company whose names are enshrined on this roll.

Freemen are not readily made, nor should they ever be. This is an accolade normally conferred only on individuals who grace the roll by virtue of eminent Canadian achievement or have served this community in a manner specially deserving of such bestowal. Only six others in the history of the city have been so honored, plus the collective freemanship conferred a few years ago on the local Canadian Scottish Regiment.

Mr. Mayhew qualifies for admission to this select group on both counts. He has been a cabinet minister of national government, an ambassador serving this country on important foreign assignment, and on the local scene a municipal councillor, its representative in the federal parliament for 15 years, and in addition a prominent businessman of the Victoria area.

In all of the posts and demands made on his time, energy and ability he has responded with fine dedication and sincerity of purpose and is greatly respected throughout the land. In the long years of his residence in Victoria, since the turn of the century, he has been a citizen of fine quality and contributed in many other ways to the welfare of the community. No more familiar name is extant on the local scene than that of Robert Mayhew.

In person Mr. Mayhew is an individual of quiet distinction, modest about the varied and interesting career that has been his, and of friendly and pleasing disposition. Now in his 86th year, this final tribute to his life works is something that honors the city as much as it honors a recipient well worthy of being a Freeman of Victoria.

Revolt in the Back Benches

Junior Parliamentarians Fight Old Frustrations

This American journalist has been taking a shrewd look at Canadian political conditions during some weeks of study across the country and this is one of a number of articles he has contributed to The Colonist.

PARLIAMENTARY backbenchers are clamoring for a greater voice in government in an effort to overcome what they call Canada's "crisis of political leadership."

Although not an organized political bloc, these new and sometimes younger members of Parliament are being pinpointed as tough-minded radicals and new-wave reformers eager to do more than rubber-stamp government decisions.

"In the old days the backbenchers would be delighted just to get a handshake from the prime minister," said an informed source. "These guys don't give a damn for the P.M. They're part of the managerial revolution—the young intellectual who is a get-things-done type."

Their attitude, according to some, is that the current political leadership is old, both in chronology and in attitude. Its effectiveness is being sapped by all the political grudges that have become meaningless in Canada's transformation from a simple rural society into a complex, modern state.

Although small in number, the "new-age radicals" are expected to have considerable impact in Canadian politics. "They regard the welfare state as inadequate because it offers only palliatives for existing inequalities," said an observer.

"What really sets them apart from their predecessors is their preoccupation with a whole series of non-monetary reforms, involving a more creative use of the legal process."

The dissident number about 20 members of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's Liberal Party, which heads Canada's minority government with 130 of the 265 seats in the House of Commons. Pearson, 69, has been leader of the Liberals for eight years.

A similar group exists in the Progressive Conservative Party (98 seats), but its main thrust is an effort to remove 70-year-old John Diefenbaker who has headed the Conservatives since 1956.

The rebels on both sides maintain they are motivated by more than personal, political ambition. Many on the Liberal side say they would like to start the political effervescence of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-N.Y.) bubbling in Canada.

At Conservative M.P. Gordon Fairweather, 43, put it: "We have ideas. We have energy to burn. And we came here expecting to do a job. Nobody seems to want us to do anything. Sometimes we think that if we'd just sit quiet, do nothing and say nothing the old men would like us better for it."

The backbenchers feel that Canada is really run by the prime minister and the 25 men and a woman who are his cabinet ministers.

"The other 239 members of Parliament," said a recent magazine editorial, "are getting paid $18,000 a year to comment on a job the cabinet is doing."

Ironically, this has greater impact on the party in power than on the opposition. The Liberal backbenchers would find it politically embarrassing to rise in the House and challenge a pronouncement by one of his party's ministers. That is the function of the opposition.

True, the Liberals, for example, hold a party caucus every Wednesday morning at which policy and programs are discussed by all party members.

However, backbenchers maintain that by the time a specific issue reaches the caucus, policy already has been decided. They point to the recent proposal by Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp for removal of the 6 per cent interest ceiling on bank loans.

The caucus rejected it, but after further maneuvering, Sharp stuck to the plan which will be presented to Parliament in October.

Yet the backbenchers must defend such proposals when they return to their ridings for re-election.

To meet at least part of the demands from backbenchers, Pearson's government revamped Parliament's committee system earlier this year. Previously, the standing committees—there were about 20—were places where legislation did little more than gather dust during its transition from proposal to law.

Each of the committees is now chaired by a backbencher and they have become forums for meaningful discussion on proposed legislation. Some suggest that the committee system be strengthened further. They point to the U.S. Congress' committee system as a guide, and urge that the Canadian committees have a paid counsel and staff for research and other purposes.

Another proposal is the concept of "accountability" which is expected to create considerable debate at the Liberal Party rally in October.

"Accountability," said Mark MacGuigan, a University of Toronto law professor who heads a group of Ontario Liberals, "aims to make each MP responsible to the whole cabinet. Perhaps this can never be wholly realized, but at least a wholesome penchant between the ministers and party can be created so that the cabinet no longer has a complete sovereignty."

The proposal, already approved by the Ontario Liberal Party, calls for:

1—A policy rally to be held every two years at which all party members would have a voice in formulating policy. Such rallies are now held at irregular intervals. The last Liberal Party rally was in 1961.

2—Every policy decision made at the rally would have to be put into effect before the next meeting. If not, the prime minister would have to explain why.

3—There would be sanctions against the ministers who failed to carry out a rally-approved policy. This could include dismissal.

The "accountability" policy is expected to be an issue in the next few years among younger party members.

His Was a Soaring Confidence

Wells, the Great Optimist, Would Lament Events

THE declines, falls, and reverses of literary reputations are a continual source of astonishment to those who remember the authority and reputation once held by authors who after death are too rapidly forgotten. In September this year there occurs the centenary of the birth of H. G. Wells and no doubt the serious papers will carry assessments of his work. But if the younger readers want to meet the essential Wells and not just the author of a few lively and amusing novels such as Love and Mr. Lewisham, Kipps, and Mr. Polly, they will have to delve in public libraries. Very little of his enormous output of books is still in print.

As a young man I was a devoted Wellsian and gladly undertook to write a short book about him in one of the Famous Writers series. On re-reading it recently I was surprised to see that I had said "At the time of the Armistice (in 1919) Woodrow Wilson had the ear of the world to an extent unknown by any living statesman before. He failed and passed. That sovereignty over the minds of men was transferred in no small measure to H. G. Wells who found himself, at the time of the Washington Conference, with a devoted following of millions."

This I attributed in part to the syndication of newspaper features so that hosts of readers in various nations could read the same articles at the same time. But the Wellsian views on the peace and its possibilities would not have been so widely printed unless he had been established as Britain's most readable as well as challenging publicist. Journalism is of its time and inevitably transient. But Wells had been pouring out books of all kinds for a quarter of a century before 1919. He was contemptuous of a society in which he had had to fight his way up from negligible schooling and drudgery behind a draper's counter to a place at London University and then on by way of science fiction to be a counsellor on all manner of social reforms and reconstructions.

He was a quenchless fountain of ideas about today and tomorrow, rapidly changing his views but as quick with the new as he was to discard the old. Above all, he was an optimist. Believing swift progress to a world state to be possible.

The vagaries of renown have been cruel to Wells. In 1919 Bernard Shaw was a left-wing dramatist whose plays appealed only to a few in the theatre. Today his plays are continually revived, books about him are constantly appearing, and much of his copious correspondence is being reprinted in a series of huge volumes. John Galsworthy was then a novelist and dramatist appreciated by a few. Suddenly his Forsyte books, issued together as the Forsyte Saga, conquered a world-wide readership. After his death, his name faded out. The Forsytes are to reappear in a long BBC television series which may well have an international sale. That may bring Galsworthy back into prominence.

It is possible to see a similar Wells revival as a novelist, but not as the promoter of radical opinions and as a political draughtsman. Industrious designing a more reasonable world. One reason for that is a sweeping change from a buoyant hope to an increasing doubt, indeed almost to despair, about

Back-to-Work Formula

Tory MP Urges Fellow Members To Try to Earn Their $18,000

By RICHARD JACKSON,
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

Now that they've been home some three weeks, and probably been well chewed-out by those of their constituents who refer to things federal as "the mess in Ottawa," some of the honorable members may be recalling an idea they had that just might polish up Parliament's unshining image.

It was first kicked around in the Conservative lobby where it originated.

Then, as Parliament's really a club, perhaps the nation's most exclusive, a select circle where everybody quickly gets to know everybody else's business, it was knocked about at the Liberal caucus.

And who knows, it might even have been tossed onto the table for a work-out at cabinet.

The proposition? Simple. Basic.

Put Parliament to work.

Make it the full-time job Prime Minister Pearson three years ago said it must become when he raised MP pay to $18,000 plus such fringe benefit goodies as free weekly Air Canada trips home and back, free long distance phone service and free trips abroad.

Put it on a work schedule that, except for short breaks at Christmas, Easter and a couple of weeks in mid-summer, would keep it in business 12 months a year.

Just like the taxpayers. Initially the idea sprang from the agile mind of David Pugh, four-term Conservative MP for Okanagan-Boundary.

Actually, it was a holiday proposal — if in reverse — no parliamentary vacation. Instead of knocking off for 13 weeks — as it's doing this summer — often longer, sometimes shorter in other years — let it adjourn at the end of every third week of the month, with MPs going home for the fourth.

That way, parliamentarians could properly attend to both their jobs.

The one here in the Commons representing their constituents. And, the other back in the constituency justifying that representation.

It just possible might have the side effect of curing, even partially, the chronic Commons' illness of absenteeism.

(In one of a series of votes in the House on the old age pension issue just before the summer recess, only 53 MPs were there to be counted — precisely one-fifth of the 265 who might have been expected to stand up on such a hotly controversial and basic question.)

If the MPs knew that for one out of every four weeks they could return — in fact, be expected to go back to their constituencies — to do their homework, then just possibly they might be persuaded to spend the other three more regularly in the Commons.

Since Parliament recessed, you'd be surprised at the number of MPs' secretaries who are mailing out thousands upon thousands of letters to constituents, reporting, among other things, just how profitably good their work in the public interest has been these recent weeks.

Good, perhaps, for some. But just how good?

True or false, in varying degrees, should such claims of excellence really have to be made by MPs?

Wouldn't the job done speak for itself if it were all that good?

And if it really were the quality performance so many MPs now are claiming — how come so little, if actually anything, was done about the still, ever more rapidly rising cost of living, the real key to so many pressingly unsolved national problems?

But put Parliament to work on a regular year-round schedule, as David Pugh suggests, and things might be different.

Taxpayers don't work just seven, eight, or at most, nine months a year, nor do many of them make $18,000 and up. And face it, they're — you're — actually the boss, and have the collective decision in cancelling or renewing an MP's public service contract.

If Dave Pugh and some of those who like his regular work year idea had their way, the MPs, their constituents and the Commons all would benefit.

The MP could keep in regular, steady touch with hometown and constituency grass roots, not just on irregular flying weekend trips, but for some 10 days every working month.

And Parliament would gain, for being in orderly business for 12 working months of the year, it would have a better feeling of continuity in the processing of legislation and a clearer, sounder understanding of how and why the taxpayers feel about things.

Egypt Cries "Worm!"

It's Just a Stunt In War on Weevil

IRENE REESON from Cairo

THE campaign to save Egypt's million-acre cotton crop has been intensified with press warnings that after a brief lull a new threat would arise from the second generation bollworm.

Since June 1, when the cotton worm first appeared in the Delta, where Egypt's main cotton plantations are, the rural population, schoolchildren and students have been mobilized to handpick the affected leaves. For eight or ten hours a day, row upon row of children, hardly taller than the cotton plants, work under the watchful eye of supervisors, carefully inspecting each plant, each leaf, to remove the pest.

The campaign in the local press has been alarming and lead to reports abroad that this year's cotton crop was lost. Since 50 per cent of the crop is mortgaged to the Soviet Union and other socialist countries in exchange for various goods and machinery and a large proportion is exported in exchange for hard currency, the country seemed to be heading towards economic disaster.

Dr. Shafik al Khashen, minister of agriculture, warned that the danger from the cotton worm was heightened in July when the plant reaches maturity and its long branches become tangled, making it difficult to remove the worm by hand. Mr. Abdel Aziz Mohamed, under secretary for agriculture, reported at the same time that the presence of egg masses was still general in the Delta, Oase and Gharbi plantations and partial elsewhere. Between July 1 and 10, he said, 500,000 acres of cotton fields had been sprayed with insecticides.

The next day Dr. Khashen announced that the cotton plantations were in good condition and the yield per acre "abundant."

Yet Mr. Al-Ahram sounded the alarm again with a warning that this year's crop was exposed to a terrifying invasion of cotton worm which might jeopardize the country's production.

In the bad old days the problem was solved by using forced labor. The peasant and his family were called away from their fields and homes and directed to that part of the country where crops were threatened. But forced labor was abolished in 1933. According to a law enacted in 1910, however, any male between the ages of nine and 25 who works on the land can be mobilized by the authorities to deal with agricultural emergencies.

The only way the reluctant fellow can be dragged away from feasting his winter nest is by crying "Worm," proclaiming a national emergency and directing him and his children to the fields — an army fighting off the invader.

The reports of cotton losses had alarmed some foreign buyers, Mr. Mohamed said, but the government had been able to assure them that contracts would be fulfilled.

There has been very little damage to the cotton crop," Mr. Abdel Aziz Mohamed told me at the ministry. The cotton worm invasion is "traditional," he explained; it occurs every year and this year's threat had been normal.

When I asked about the alarming press campaign and reports he smilingly explained that the papers had exaggerated the whole thing... deliberately... to "stimulate the farmers."

It is also traditional, at this time of year, for the farmer to busy himself with his own small winter crops. According to the under secretary, the fellow (peasant) considers that since the cotton crop belongs to the government, it is up to the government to deal with the pest.

use of radio and later of television had passed enormous power to those who control these media. He could not then foresee general elections won by the Big Brother image and an electorate with whom a face and a tone of conversational voice are more potent than a policy. Awareness of that came later; the ability of a few to pervert and destroy the independence and will-power of the many was acutely described by Aldous Huxley in Brave New World and later by Orwell with their pictures of a lively democracy replaced by spiritless docility.

The sanguine temper of the world before 1914 has not yet been recovered. One can only hope, rather weakly, that it may return and that the thinker of tomorrow will be hankering Utopian dreams instead of nightmares. In his years of optimism Wells had been rich in imagining many splendid possibilities and cogently persuasive in the urgency of his prose.

But any endurance of his name will probably depend on the comedy of his vivid novels written at the beginning of the century when he was living "on the top of happy hours." In 1914 he was still confident in the face of calamity. He would see that conflict as a final not a recurrent and persisting folly and he served the recruiting campaign with a book called The War to End War. How absurd and pathetic that title seems now! Despite all his shrewdness he had too easily believed that mankind was in the re-making and could be schooled into reasonable ways by the teaching of reasonable men.

Pioneers Asked To Apply For Mementos

The list of persons eligible for the centennial committee's pioneer medal is growing daily, according to the Greater Victoria Centennial Society. The medals will be presented during the Canadian centenary in 1967. "For the purpose of this centennial award, a 'pioneer' is defined as any person who was either born in Canada or a resident of Canada prior to Jan. 1, 1867," a spokesman for the society said Friday. "It is not necessary that such a person has had continuous residence in Canada since that date, but he or she must be a resident of B.C. now," the spokesman added. Applications for the medals for those in the Greater Victoria area are to be made at the society's office at No. 14 Centennial Square. Completed applications are requested as soon as possible because they have to be forwarded to the provincial centennial office by Nov. 19. The medal will be in silver finish with a ribbon of muted navy blue. On the obverse side is a likeness of Alexander MacKenzie. The reverse side has a bold 100 and the geometric maple leaf, and the dogwood. Centennial week will be from Sept. 3 to 11 this year and will be highlighted by the RCMP musical ride and the University of British Columbia's satirical revue In The Rough.

Province Buying Private Hospitals

Health Minister Martin said Friday negotiations are being conducted to acquire a number of private hospitals, then turn them into public chronic care units. "Negotiations," said Mr. Martin, "are going on in some cases, but some of them seem to be a little nebulous." It was not immediately clear how many hospitals were involved in the new scheme, nor would the minister divulge the location of the cities where the hospitals would be purchased. "To do so," he said, "would sink the whole program."

Lighter Banned In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — A cigarette lighter which ignites spontaneously when the cap is removed has been banned from city stores, provincial Fire Marshal Basil Nixon reported Wednesday. He said both the dealer and distributor for the lighter co-operated fully when asked last week to remove the lighters from the market. The lighter contains a chemical which ignites upon contact with air and is considered dangerous.

Late in Joining

B.C. Gate-Crashing 1967 Party?

By JOHN MATTERS
British Columbians have no right celebrating the 1967 centennial of Confederation because the province had nothing to do with that union 98 years ago.

"We weren't part of Canada — we had nothing to do with it," provincial archivist Willard Ireland said Thursday night.

When Upper and Lower Canada joined the Maritimes July 1, 1867, the union of Vancouver Island with the Mainland was hardly a year old and British Columbians, if they were concerned about it at all, had to wait until 1871 before becoming part of Canada. Mr. Ireland gave the last of three lectures sponsored by the University of Victoria's history department and the B.C. Centennial Committee.

B.C. is a curious hybrid of a colony that was born in seclusion, he said. When the colony of Vancouver Island was created in 1849, it was left in the hands of an archaic government. The entire island had been turned over to the Hudson's Bay Co., which in return had the responsibility of colonizing it.

"However, not many years went by before other moves occurred, each based on awareness of solidifying the colony against the United States," said Mr. Ireland. The Queen Charlotte Islands were added in 1852, the same year as the new territory of Yukon. Gov. James Douglas was the only unifying force of the time, said Mr. Ireland. "But in 1863, he was removed by the colonial office, which said its policy was unity."

in London airport. We are worried about doing the right thing."

When you get off the plane at London, they usually bus you over to the arrivals building. On the plane, you've made out a landing card. They take that. Look at your passport. Ask you how long you're going to stay in England.

Now you go to the Customs room. All the baggage from your plane is piled on counters. Get yours together. An inspector comes along. Asks if you have anything to declare. How many cigarettes? Any presents? Liquor? Sometimes asks you to open a bag, sometimes not.

Answer just what he asks. Don't be funny — he's heard all the nervous jokes. He puts a check mark on your bag. A porter takes them downstairs. You stop at the airport bank and change some money — get a dozen shillings, you'll need them. Go down and claim your luggage. The porter takes it out to the taxi rank. Tip him a shilling a bag.

Ask the starter the fare to London. The airport is JUST outside the city regulations. So the taxi driver can make his own deal aside from the meter reading. The fare (last year) was correctly 40 shillings. They'll probably ask 50. If it's over that make a loud complaint. Taxi tip is 10 per cent.

"You should correct your statement that everyone must be vaccinated for entering the U.S. or other countries. Some people cannot do this for religious reasons or because they are allergic."

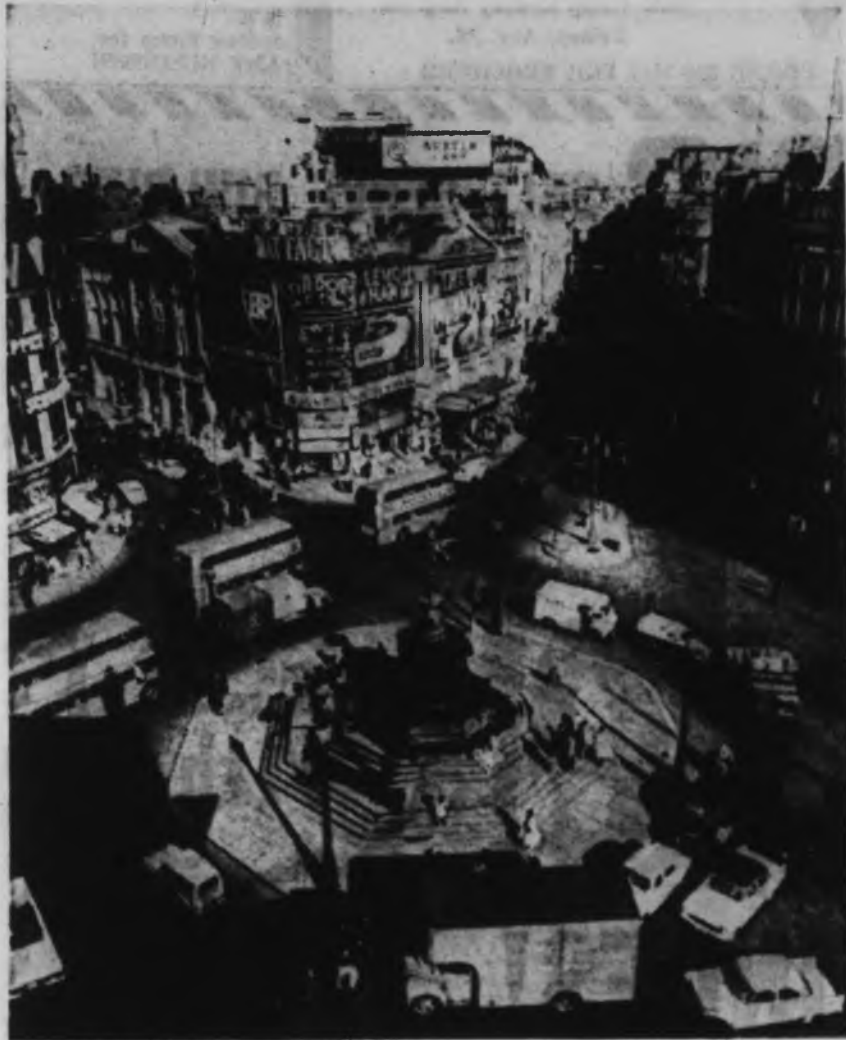

As I read the enclosure from the World Health Organization, you CAN enter without vaccination if you are not coming from an infected area. But you must report at stated times to local health boards for examination. Thanks for the info.

"Where shall we shop in Ireland for Hanes, Waterford glass and so on?"
Brown, Thomas in Grafton Street in Dublin is the elegant department store with everything.

"I am going to Australia via Honolulu — a long 16-hour trip. Am much afraid of the time change and what it does to you physically."
From the West Coast to Sydney is more north to south than east to west. The time difference is six hours. A couple of days in Honolulu and I don't think you'd notice it at all.

"Where shall we go in Mexico City for authentic handicraft work?"
I'd get a taxi to the big markets — La Merced is a good place to start. You don't find instant silver and such things. These are the department stores for the people — hundreds of individual booths, each with a specialty.

"... a seafood specialty I've heard about in Barcelona. All I know is it's squid."
"Calamaries en su tinta" is "squid in its ink." Not for me. Maybe for you.

Eros May Be Moved

Piccadilly Circus To Be Redesigned?

LONDON (UPI) — Plans statue would be moved to a new have been revealed for the rebuilding of London's famed Piccadilly Circus.

The plan, which must be approved by the Greater London and Westminster City councils, calls for greater traffic flow around the area and a new London Pavilion with public walkways on the first floor.

Piccadilly Circus is in the heart of London's West End and theatre district.

The plan was submitted by Lord Holford who was responsible for the "piazza" plan for the circus which was turned down in 1962.

With the aim of increasing and speeding traffic flow, a traffic control room would be located on the ground level of the Pavilion site.

The first floor or deck would be a public concourse with walkways at deck level to Regent Street, Soho and Leicester Square.

The third floor above the public concourse could contain a conference hall and other areas for dancing and entertainment. The fourth floor would house a restaurant.

Below the ground level would be a pedestrian concourse connecting with the subway station and linked to the public concourse above by escalator. Under the plan, the Eros Corner block, top centre, is London Pavilion building which will be replaced if new Piccadilly Circus plan is accepted. Eros statue is at centre.

Walden and Miss Botts

Couple Spoke to Whitman and Lived

Sniper Smiled After Shooting

By CHARLES RICHARDS

AUSTIN, TEX. (UPI) — Sniper-slayer Charles J. Whitman spared the lives of a young couple in the University of Texas tower and gave them a sunny smile minutes after he had shot one of his 15 victims, it was learned Friday.

"I don't know why he didn't kill us — I guess I will never know," said Cheryl Botts, 18, of Rockdale, Tex.

Whitman, the 25-year-old student who went berserk and killed his wife, mother and 13 others Monday before police shot him dead, was buried Friday at Christian services in Florida.

A priest said "God in his infinite mercy" has forgiven him.

Miss Botts and Don Walden, 22, of San Antonio, Tex., were in the 27-story tower sightseeing Monday. They stepped off the observation deck, which Whitman minutes later was to make his sniper's lair, into the receptionist's station.

The receptionist was not there, the young couple said, but a blond man was, bending over a couch at one side of the room.

There was a spot on the floor near the desk and Walden stepped around it when Miss Botts told him about it. The blond man turned.

"We smiled and said 'Hello'."

Miss Botts said, "and he smiled real big and said, 'Hi, how are you'."

The blond man had two rifles, which Walden thought he might ask about. Then he decided they were for shooting pigeons. The couple went past a chair that blocked the way and headed down the stairs toward the elevator landing below.

When they emerged at the tower's ground floor they discovered the pleasant young man who had greeted them with a smile and two rifles at the top was shooting person after person from the tower.

They ran to a nearby building until it was over.

The slain Miss Botts and Walden saw was blood. The couch over which the young man upstairs in the tower had bent was a hiding place for dying receptionist, Edna Townsley.

The University of Texas campus newspaper, The Summer Texan, said Friday the tower should be closed.

"The university tower, for many, has stood as a symbol of learning. The tower now conjures up new images of death and horror," The Texan said.

"Perhaps in several years, after memories of the massacre have dimmed and faded, the observation deck can be reopened occasionally and with new safety precautions."

A grand jury report said Thursday Whitman went to the top of the tower, which is 307

feet tall, knowing he would not get away alive.

The jurors took evidence from doctors, police and others and differed somewhat in their interpretation of the tumor Whitman had growing on his brain. The jury report said the tumor "undoubtedly caused him much mental pain and possibly contributed to his insane actions."

Pathologist Dr. Coleman De Chenar had said the tumor would not have caused headaches but might have aggravated them. De Chenar said Whitman was "an anti-social psychopath, and that's the worst kind."

Market Review

Alcan Sparks Rise

Toronto (CP) - Alcan, Canada's largest aluminum producer, sparked a strong industrial advance on the Toronto Stock Exchange Friday, snapping a three-day losing streak.

Home Oil highlighted a stronger western oil market with the oil index advancing 1.23 to 104.70. Home Oil was up 1 1/2 to a high of 22 1/2 on 24,026 shares and Home B 1/4 to 22 1/2.

New York (AP) - The stock market finished higher by a narrow margin Friday, recovering its rally through the third straight session.

The market continued to be buoyed by the inflationary implications of the steel price increases and by growing conviction that the government was not going to take any tough measures to countermand them.

Alaska Highway 'Trap' For Unwary Motorists

FORT NELSON (CP) — "gravelled roads," an RCMP traffic officer says today, are the cause of many accidents on the Alaska Highway. They're just not used to the side of the road and loose gravel on the highway.

"There's been an increasing number of accidents due to the motorists losing control on the latest fatal smash. A New York

Governor Hasn't Seen Wire

OLYMPIA (AP)—Gov. Dan Evans says he had not personally seen a telegram reported to have been sent to him by Arthur Freeman, village chairman of Sidney, B.C., which protested a proposed leave of a Washington state wharf at Sidney to Canadian Pacific Railway.

The village chairman protested the lease by the state toll bridge authority because of the heavy night truck traffic that might hurt the tourist business.

Peace Groups Rallying

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Peace groups Friday mapped demonstrations across the United States, including the wedding of Luci Baines Johnson, to commemorate the 21st anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima Saturday. Two groups said they would protest at the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington during the marriage of the president's daughter to Patrick Nugent.

One of the groups, the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee, charged that President Johnson picked the Aug. 6 wedding date in order to divert attention from the anti-war demonstrations which have become traditional on the anniversary of Hiroshima.

Although Hiroshima demonstrations generally have been opposed to war in general, this year's centred on the war in Viet Nam. There also were overtones of the civil rights controversy as leaders of militant Negro groups took part in Viet Nam, clearing-house organization of anti-war groups.

Rodgers' Error Eclipses Boros

A seven-under-par 64 in the $100,000 Cleveland golf open Friday was overshadowed by a small but expensive mistake.

Julius Boros shot the 64, putting himself at 136, one stroke behind halfway leader Gary Brewer and Bob Goalby. Goalby fired a 67, Brewer a 68.

In history, Rumors now say the NFL club will pay him $915,000 in a four-year contract. Houston of the AFL, who sought Brodie before the leagues merged, will pay about 40 per cent of the bill to prevent antitrust action.

... in Canada, Edmonton dropped cornerback Tom Freeman, Toronto picked up former Hamilton back Johnny Canasta and Montreal has lost first-string fullback J. W. Lockhart for the rest of the season. He broke his left arm when the Als lost to Ottawa Wednesday.

In baseball, Trail was eliminated from the Babe Ruth regional tournament at New Westminster. Trail had beaten Victoria last month. ... Washington Senators recalled infielder Tim Lincecum, 24, from Hawaii of the PCL. ... right-hander Dennis Musgrave, paid $100,000 by the Mets to sign in 1964, may be out of baseball permanently because of a right elbow ailment.

And in hockey, Terry Sawchuk, at 39 the dean of NHL goalies, says his recent surgery to correct a back ailment is a complete success. He expects to report to hockey camp "feeling like a rookie."

Nancy Greene of Rossland fell during the second run, ruining her chances in the women's slalom, first race of the 1966 world alpine skiing championships at Portillo, Chile. She won the first run but France's Anne Fanone was the final champion. ... also in international sports, Russia won the world parachuting championships at Berlin. Daryl Heary of Toronto led the Canadians with a ninth-place finish.

In football, San Francisco 49er quarterback John Brodie may be the highest-paid athlete

Water Hunters Must Pay $2

OTTAWA (CP)—Every water-determine more accurately the number of waterfowl hunters, where and when they hunt, how many birds of each species are killed and where and when the birds are killed.

The department also announced new bag and possession limits for all provinces.

Relaxed bag and possession limits in the Prairie provinces feature the new regulations, indicating much better water conditions and higher bird popula-

Numbers nevertheless remain below the long-term averages.

Bag limits are up to six from five and possession limits to 12 from 10 for both ducks and geese. Not more than half of the ducks may be mallards and not more than five of the six geese may be Canada geese.

Only one major change occurs in British Columbia, where the limit for black brant geese increases to four from three.

B.C. will retain its long and intricate date schedule for hunters.

Showmen Compete with Squeals

By BERT BINNY

Not long ago, Robert F. Shaw, vice-president of Expo '67, made the statement that "excitement was at fever pitch all over Canada" about the 1967 shennanigans on St. Helen's Island.

This being so, it was hard to understand why four out of five people interviewed at random by CBC-TV at roughly the same time had either never heard of Expo or hadn't the foggiest idea what it was.

One made the rather memorable remark that, while he didn't know anything about Expo '67, he hoped sincerely that it would be better than '66.

BIG GULF

All too often there is too great a gulf fixed between promoters and participants in such affairs and the ordinary Joe.

The former tend to expect miracles. They sigh for what to them is fully reasonable but what is in reality the moon. The Centennial, or Exposition, or whatever the current wingding may happen to be, is looked fondly upon by its promoters as a philosopher's stone—the elixir that will change dross to gold, a hypnotic agent that will persuade everyone that things are not as they seem.

A certain amount of this brand of wishful thinking seems to be accompanying Centennial proceedings in Victoria.

ENTHUSIASM

The "activation" of Centennial Square which, it is understood, occupies the attention of an entire committee, is a case in point. The quickest method of accomplishing this would probably be to upset a nest of barbed wire in the Square. Activation would surely follow.

The idea of utilizing the Square as an entertainment centre must be fortified more by enthusiasm than reason.

In the first place, if the Square were ever intended as a sort of open-air Palladium, it was wretchedly planned. What little stage area there is lies off to one side almost facing the fountains.

DISTRACTIONS

A good front view of proceedings could mean a good, wet seat. If the area directly east of the fountains is utilized there is a slight resemblance to early Greek amphitheatres but in its most primitive form.

However, the great objection lies in the many distractions.

Not only is there no architectural focus, such as a procession arch, to use a focus but each and every show automatically becomes the victim of every police or fire siren, every wedding honker, queuing fire or noisy exhaust on Douglas, Government, Fargaro or Pandora.

FOUNTAIN

Not the least distracting feature by any means is the fountain itself which, apparently, only one person in the City knows how to turn off.

If there is a wind it whistles through the Square as if it were a tunnel and always there is human activity which, in turn, seems to be an infectious phenomenon. Like sleeping in a bed, who one moves so does everyone else.

It takes a big, colorful, fast-moving show to overcome all these built-in hazards. It has been done and, doubtless, it will be done again.

But squall shows, no matter how artistically excellent in themselves, are not only doomed but virtually dead before they start.

Something might be done, if not to activate, at least to popularize the Square with piped music all along the line punctuated by massive display shows if and when available.

But don't imagine for one

Police Warning To No Avail; Sentence Follows

Police told Robert Gust in the early hours of July 9 that if he drove he would be charged with impaired driving. But minutes later he was seen driving on Government Street.

Gust, 1042 Lodge, was convicted in central magistrate's court Friday of impaired driving and was fined $300. His licence was suspended.

Constable Louis Truesdale said he spoke to Gust and three other people on Johnson July 9 and all were "quite intoxicated."

DRIVER WARNED

Gust walked to his car and was about to close the door when he was told he would be arrested for impaired driving if he drove away.

Constable Truesdale said Gust said he would get something to eat and was told he could still not drive after eating.

"The police left but soon afterwards saw someone getting into the car. Chase was given and Gust was stopped at Ray and Quadra.

DRINKING BEER

Gust told the court he was drinking beer from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. but did not have a drink for the next four hours.

He said he went to a restaurant but it was crowded. He thought he could drive home.

Gary Conway turned into a driveway when police waved him down for a road check on Esquimalt Road Thursday night.

He was arrested and gave a breathalyzer reading of .17 per cent.

Conway, 512 Gore, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $300. His licence was suspended.

Police chased Michael Cardin by car and then on foot early Friday morning.

Cardin, 18, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to vagrancy, careless driving and to not having a driver's licence and was remanded to Aug. 12 for a pre-sentence report.

SPEED INCREASES

Court was told Saanich police followed Cardin as he drove on Admirals at 5:35 a.m. His speed increased and at Gore and Inlet he lost control of his car.

He leapt from the car and was caught after a short chase.

He gave a false name and told police he was unemployed. He had $1.66 on him at the time.

Gilbey's discover amazingly tall mixed gin drinks in Kenya

Gilbey's London Dry is used to make giraffe-size mixed gin drinks in Kenya.

IN KENYA the sun scorches all year round. So wise Kenyans mix amazingly tall mixed gin drinks with Gilbey's London Dry. They choose this gin because its perfect balance gives a fresh, clean tasting drink. And perfect balance is what you need when you're sipping a Gilbey's Treetop Special perched atop a giant fig tree.

Gilbey's Treetop Special

In the Kenyan jungle near a waterhole there is a miniature hotel perched atop a giant fig tree. Guests are able to sip a Gilbey's Treetop Special while observing wild game drinking at the waterhole. The drink is a mixture of orange, lime and lemon juices along with Gilbey's London Dry Gin, sugar and soda water.

Khotso's Spell

Another long and very tall Kenyan cooler is named after an African witchdoctor. The reasons for this are somewhat obscure since the witchdoctor, Khotso Sethunza lives in Pondoland. But he is a millionaire which may have helped his case somewhat. The drink is a simple mixture of fresh orange juice and Gilbey's London Dry topped up with ginger ale.

You can rely on Gilbey's London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin that gives you a fresh, clean tasting drink. This gin is an international favourite, sold in 92 countries. It's been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years.

'Misinterpretation' Claimed

Ban on Beatles Infectious

NEW YORK (UPI)—Scores of radio stations hopped on the Beatles "ban wagon" Friday because of John Lennon's remarks about Jesus but a few criticized the reaction as hypocritical.

So acrid was the controversy that the Beatles' manager, Brian Epstein, flew in from London unexpectedly Thursday night to sample public opinion before the mop-tops arrive to start a 15-day American tour Friday.

Epstein said he saw no reason to call off the four "at this time," but even as he spoke more radio stations announced they had banned Beatle music. Some demanded that Lennon retract his remarks and apologize.

BOYCOTTERS
Reaction in California was reported so unfavorable that the Beatles' appearance in San Francisco's Candlestick Park was reported in doubt. An invitation by station KOB, Albuquerque, for listeners to phone in their views resulted in 600 calls, 65 per cent of which were in favor of boycotting the Liverpudlians.

The views on religion were noted in an interview with Lennon by Maureen Cleave of the London Evening Standard, reprinted in a teen age magazine, Datebook. Miss Cleave said Lennon told her that Christianity is on the wane and the Beatles are now "more popular than Jesus."

DEPLORED
"He was simply observing that so weak was the state of Christianity that the Beatles were, to many people, better known than Jesus. He was deploring rather than approving this."

Epstein also claimed that Lennon had been "misinterpreted."

Spokane Chickens

Lack of Cooking Poison Cause?

SPOKANE (AP)—The apparent source of a salmonella outbreak in Spokane last month has been found and investigators discovered the outbreak apparently spread into Idaho, health officials said here Friday.

Dr. Hampton H. Traynor, city health officer, said the barbecued chickens involved in the food poisoning weren't cooked enough or the cooked chickens came in contact with salmonella bacteria while being kept in holding ovens waiting to be sold.

TWO DEATHS

One lot of 600 chickens sold in supermarkets here July 21, and 22 birds sickened at least 60 persons and may have contributed to two deaths.

Idaho state health officials notified Washington state health department authorities and health officials here Thursday that 13 persons who attended a picnic at Priest Lake in north Idaho had been infected with salmonella.

BACTERIA SPREADS
Investigators learned that one person who attended the picnic had taken some of the contaminated chickens to the gathering.

Apparently the infected chickens were put in the same serving dish with non-contaminated birds and the salmonella bacteria spread to all of the pieces, Traynor said.

Christianity Not Joyless

Christ gives us the grace we need to lead temperate lives in the midst of the indulgence and decadence of our time.

This is the message of Rev. David H. Metzger, pastor of Grace English Lutheran Church, 1273 Fort.

"Christianity is not a message about joyless abstinence," Mr. Metzger says, "but the call is going out for more sanity in our living if our society is not to be destroyed from within by moral and mental decay."

Mr. Metzger has been preaching on the general theme of Living the Seven Virtues.

An evangelical understanding of the word Temperance will be the subject of his sermon this Sunday.

What We See From a Victoria High Rise is the subject of Rev. Hugh A. McLeod, guest preacher at First United Church, at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Walter Thomson will share in the conduct of the service. Soloist for the day is Mary Ward. Kenneth Ansell is organist and Jean Meyers, cantorian.

At Metropolitan Church, Dr. H. E. D. Ashford will give the sermon, Coming Events Cast Shadows, at 11 a.m. Congregations of both churches will gather at Metropolitan for the 7:30 p.m. service during the month of August.

Dr. Ashford's subject in the evening is The One Eternal Institution. Glen Atkinson will be soloist at both services in Metropolitan.

Pastor A. M. Spenn has chosen as his subject for the 11 a.m. service today in the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Pandora at Vancouver. This is the victory, quoting 1 John 5:4, John identified the Christian's faith as a stabilizing, impelling force in his service for God.

Both morning and evening worship will be conducted by Rev. J. L. W. McLean at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday.

His subject in the morning is Bread — Or a Stone? At the evening service, he will preach on Real Religion. The evening service will be broadcast over CJVI.

The service of praise will be led by a quartet: Marion Campbell, soprano; Georgina Harper, contralto; John Bell, tenor; David Conrad, bass. In the morning they will sing Be Still My Soul by Sibelius and Marion Campbell will sing a solo, God Is a Spirit by Dvorak.

In the evening the quartet will sing O God Who Has Prepared by Robert and David Conrad will sing a solo, Vouchsafe O Lord by Handel.

Dr. William Graham, of the Church of the Truth in Portland, Ore., will be guest speaker at Victoria Truth Centre for the month of August.

Dr. Graham will devote his Sunday evening meetings to the study and practice of treatment. "Treatment is a voluntary and purposeful action of the mind. It has one immediate goal: to raise the consciousness," Dr. Graham says.

His topic at the 11 a.m. service Sunday is Facing Up To Life. At 7:30 p.m., he will give Lesson One of his series Practice in Treatment.

Pastor Lloyd Mackey will speak on the subject Which Side Does God Fight On, at 11:15 a.m. in Parkdale Evangelical Free Church.

There will also be Communion and a child dedication in the service.

In the 7 p.m. service, the Parkdale Youth Choir will sing and Mr. Mackey's subject will be God of Peace.

At the 9:45 a.m. Sunday school hour, the young adults class is taking a course in the history of the Christian church. Parents of Sunday school students are invited to enrol.

Centennial United Church will celebrate the re-opening of the sanctuary on Sunday. After being closed for painting, decorating and new lighting, it will be rededicated at 11 a.m.

The new lighting system has been installed by the United Church Women in memory of members and friends who passed away in recent years.

At the evening service, Dr. Samuel Parsons will outline a program for Centennial year at the church and will call for dedication on the part of members.

At the 11 a.m. service in Central Baptist Church, Rev. R. D. Holmes will speak on Misadventures.

The Salvation Army flag, which disappeared during the Red Shield Campaign of fundraising in May, has been recovered.

The flag was flown from the flagpole on the Camosway during the campaign and it was stolen.

The Rev. Richard Pritchard jumped into the controversy caused by Beatle John Lennon's reported comment that The Beatles are more popular than Jesus.

People should start blaming themselves and stop blaming The Beatles for the comment, Mr. Pritchard said. Instead of rising up and banning the rock and roll group, people should "take a look at their own standards and values."

Law and the Driver

Many motorists are not aware of the clauses of the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act. For their benefit, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce traffic safety committee has prepared a list of traffic regulations with explanations where needed.

Not included are clauses which refer specifically to professional drivers.

SECTION 163 Yield Signs

Except as provided in Section 165, where two vehicles approach or enter an intersection from different highways at approximately the same time and there are no "Yield" signs, the driver of a vehicle shall yield the right-of-way to the vehicle that is on the right of the vehicle which he is driving; but where there is a "Yield" sign, the driver of a vehicle facing the sign shall yield the right-of-way to all other traffic.

Comment:

If you are in doubt as to the action the other driver may take, it is always better to stop your vehicle, and avoid the possibility of an accident.

Mill Smoke Continues To Fill Air

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

Deadline for smoke elimination at Plumper Bay was midnight Friday but, according to residents in the district, it would not be met.

Smoke was still emanating from one burner on the Plumper Bay Sawmills Ltd. property late Friday afternoon.

Metropolitan Board of Health representatives visited the mill Friday and found one burner consuming bark refuse and giving off smoke.

ONE CLOSED DOWN

The mill originally had two burners but one was closed down on deadline by order of the board of health.

Nearby residents have complained about smoke and fallout from the mill for more than a year. Action was taken by the health board and one of the two beehive burners was dismantled this summer. Equipment was installed and chips and shavings trucked away for pulp conversion.

BURNING REDUCED

In April, the board was told that burning had been cut down from 60 to five tons a day and that further equipment was being installed to eliminate burning altogether.

At the June meeting of the board a letter from the company's solicitors said that burning would cease as of Aug. 5.

MANY COMPLAINTS

Reports received Friday were that the machinery was in motion to eliminate burning but that it would continue beyond the deadline. It was also reported that the board of health was receiving many complaints from residents in the district.

Linda Bamford, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bamford, 271 Glenair Drive, said Friday afternoon there was still smoke in the air.

"I can smell it but, of course, we have got so used to it now that sometimes you don't realize that it is present," Linda said.

SMOKE 'TERRIBLE'

Mrs. D. T. Rix, 655 Craigflower, said the smoke has been "terrible" in the past week.

"There is a breeze right now and it is blowing away but I can still smell it quite strongly," she said.

"The burners are still working and the smoke is still pouring into the air," said Lloyd Smith, who lives on Portage Inlet.

NO ACTION CONSIDERED

Assistant Medical Officer of Health Dr. T. J. Bailey said Friday afternoon that so far as he knew the midnight deadline could still be met by the company.

Dr. Bailey said that no action by the Metropolitan Board of Health would be considered until after the deadline passed.

Graham, right, and Maycock examine Goya sketch.

By WILLIAM THOMAS

If any experts have doubts about the authenticity of the Goya sketch book bequeathed to the Greater Victoria Art Gallery they are not shared by bank manager George Maycock.

The treasure given to the gallery by the late Johannes Klavenswyden is locked in the Bank of Montreal's Government Street branch vault.

If any art experts have Friday afternoon it was taken out for half an hour and then duly put away with signatures affixed to a special seal. After all, Mr. Maycock is also the gallery president.

What does a $500,000 art masterpiece look like? From the outside it seems like a small leather wallet stuffed with rough paper.

Goya used a household account book popular with 18th century housewives to sketch his brush and pen drawings.

On the first page there still are figures arranged in order with their total totted up at the bottom as if Goya at first thought used it for his own calculations.

The drawings are witty, sad and sometimes quite caustic but all done in excellent style.

Questioned on plans to show the drawings when they have been mounted, gallery director Colin Graham said, "We will have to find space for them," but when pressed for a statement on possible plans for a new building Mr. Graham smiled and said, "We always need more space."

Five Medallion-Seekers Find Esquimalt Cache

Another centennial medallion was ferreted out Thursday by gimlet-eyed Victoria treasure-seekers.

It was the third of five gold medallions the size of 50-cent pieces to be found in the Greater Victoria Centennial Society's Quest of the Century treasure hunt.

A medallion, engraved with the B.C. dogwood on one side, and a maple leaf on the other, was hidden in each of the five Greater Victoria municipalities.

IN PARK

Clues for each of the hidden medallions were publicized and the hunt was on.

Thursday night, five young sleuths solved the Esquimalt clues — An old adobe mission area, Hunt beneath the Union Jack — and found the medallion worth $100 on top of a plaque on the memorial stand in the municipality's memorial park.

Finders of the Esquimalt medallion were: Brian Watt, 4017 McLellan; Robert Burnett, 1288 Montrose; Linda Mills, 831 Selkirk; Dawn Griffin, 1720 Newton; Leona Mahoney, 4034 McLellan.

The Central Saanich medallion was found earlier by Philip Shelton, 4619 Vantreight. The medallion which had been hidden in the municipality of Oak Bay was located by David Robertson, 14, of 1770 St. Ann.

Only two medallions remain hidden — Victoria's and the one in Saanich — but each is worth $100 to the finder.

Swimmer Hauled From Lake

A 16-year-old Langford youth was saved from drowning by the quick action of friends Friday evening.

Rocky Bertucci, of 1147 Goldstream Avenue, was swimming in Glen Lake with a group of friends when he failed to surface at about 10:30 p.m.

His friends pulled him from the lake and called Langford ambulance, who took him to St. Joseph's Hospital.

He was conscious at the hospital, but was expected to be detained overnight for a check-up.

Deadline Near

The University of Victoria reminded prospective students Friday that applications for admission to the fall term must be submitted by Aug. 15. Lectures begin Sept. 19.

City Losing MLA

Parties Ready To Nominate

Election fever will produce a rash of nominating conventions in Greater Victoria during the next week or two.

Most interesting meeting shaping up here will be that of the Victoria constituency Social Credit association, which must drop one of three incumbents from the slate because of this year's redistribution act.

Waldo Skillings, Donald Smith and works minister Chant have kept Victoria sewn up tight for Social Credit.

MEETING TODAY

All three have said they are willing to run again if nominated. But redistribution will give Victoria only two seats in the next legislature after the Sept. 12 election.

Constituency president Hugh Ramsay announced Friday following Premier Bennett's election announcement that the executive will meet today and likely set the date of a nomination meeting.

It will probably come between the 18th and 22nd of August. Mr. Skillings has held his seat since 1960, Mr. Smith since 1956 and Mr. Chant since 1953.

BIRTHDAY

If nominated and elected, Mr. Smith would have extra cause to celebrate his 47th birthday Sept. 12.

So far the only candidates nominated in Greater Victoria have been in Esquimalt riding. John Bartus, a logger and chairman of the Sooke School Board, will campaign for the New Democratic Party.

David Elrix, an insurance executive, was nominated by the Liberals this week.

UNOPPOSED?

They will likely face Herbert Bruch, at age 46 a veteran of 13 years in the seat for the Social Credit party.

Within 10 minutes of Premier Bennett's announcement Friday, constituency president H. F. Williams announced that a nominating meeting will be held Aug. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in Colwood Community Hall.

Mr. Bruch is expected to be unopposed for the nomination.

FORMS OUT

In Victoria constituency Liberal association president Robert Dudley promised an announcement "very shortly." The NDP has sent out nomination forms but has not fixed the date of a meeting.

There has been no word from the Conservatives.

In Oak Bay, incumbent Liberal Alan Macfarlane will likely be nominated again. The 42-year-old lawyer has held the seat since 1960. A Socred was runner-up in 1963.

SAANICH

Saanich Socred John Tiedalle, holder of the seat since 1953, faces a contest from the NDP at least.

NDP association president Ian Campbell said Friday: "We will have a candidate in the field."

Date of a nomination meeting is expected today.

Scots Returning After Course

Eighteen militiamen of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) return to the Bay Street Armory at 4:30 p.m. today after completing a five-week course in signals, driving and infantry exercises at Camp Wainwright, Alberta.

Member Silence Scorned

Failure of MPs to speak on Viet Nam continued to raise comment Friday as organizers prepared for a conference at St. John's Anglican Church Hall at 9 a.m. today.

Sponsors of the conference were concerned about the fact that none of four Vancouver Island Members of Parliament invited to share the speaker's stand seemed likely to do so.

AS OBSERVER

Victoria MP David Groos has stated he will avoid the meeting entirely (after earlier announcing he would speak) because of fears that the conference would develop into "an arena for anti-United States sentiment."

Esquimalt-Saanich member George Chatterton has said he will attend only as an observer.

Said Geoffrey Mitchell: "I don't think this will be a particularly anti-American affair. We are not against the people of the United States."

NO POLICY?

"Mr. Groos is showing a lack of courage. He should at the very least be willing to listen to what some citizens in his area think of this, even if he's unable to contribute a word on Canada's policy... perhaps because Canada has no real policy."

A. G. Coning declared it "a great pity" that Mr. Groos would not attend. "I would think that someone like Mr. Groos, with a long and distinguished service career, would want to see the Geneva convention adhered to."

Pancake Brunch

A pancake brunch will be held Sunday by the Loyal Order of Moose, at the Moose Hall, 524 Fort, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The public is welcome.

Independent School Will Teach By New Methods

Plans for a new independent school which will emphasize personal development were announced Friday by Victoria lawyer David Hummel.

About 20 five- and six-year-olds will be enrolled Sept. 6 at Craigdarroch School, 1075 Joan Crescent.

Mr. Hummel, chairman of the school's directors, said the school will be bilingual and ungraded.

NEW METHODS

He said the school will employ new methods of teaching which are still years away from filtering into the public school system.

First teacher will be Mrs. Jean Purcell, a graduate of the University of B.C. now working on a degree in psychology at the University of Victoria. Said Mr. Hummel in making his announcement:

"Craigdarroch School will not be an experimental school or a school devoted to weird or speculative theories."

SOUND PRINCIPLES

"It will be based upon the soundest possible principles of education now known and understood and accepted by a wide number of thoroughly responsible educators."

Co-directors with Mr. Hummel are psychiatrist Dr. Charles Gregory and Mr. Hummel's business partners, Siegfried Marquardt and William Osland.

Among the 10-man board of advisers are John Porteous, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, and Dr. Steinn W. Steinson, former lecturer at the University of Victoria on education of the gifted and a lifelong student of the subject.

League Protests Viet Nam War

City police investigated complaints about members of the Peace Action League on more than one occasion Friday night, but league members were still continuing their all-night vigil at the legislative buildings when last heard from. They were planning to stand five-hour shifts, to end at 8:30 this morning, as a protest on the Viet Nam war situation. — (Robin Clarke)

Alderman Defends Thetis Swap

Nature Beliefs, Common Sense in Balance

There comes a time when the beliefs of nature lovers, no matter how sincere, must be weighed against common sense, said Ald. Robert Baird Friday, commenting on the controversial Thetis Lake Park issue.

Defending the action of the city hall parks committee, of which he is chairman, in voting to allow B.C. Hydro to cut a right-of-way swath across the southern tip of the park, Ald. Baird said that there was no need for apprehension.

The 1,100-foot-long, 100-foot-wide allowance would not despoil the park, the alderman said.

"Any person sincerely interested in examining the facts will discover that shaving 56 trees from the southern, isolated fringe, containing 31.06 acres, and separated from the main park by the Trans-Canada Highway, is a good swap for 1,200 trees on 48.9 acres adjoining provincial Francis Park and city-owned Thetis Lake Park," he said. The "swap" referred to the fact that, in return for the right-of-way, B.C. Hydro offered title to the northern tract to which the public now has access rights.

"There comes a time when we must weigh common sense against the beliefs, no matter how sincere, of nature lovers who, I'm afraid, would deny their own brothers the amenities and comforts of modern power usage notwithstanding the economic growth of southern Vancouver Island."

Mayor Toome had no comment to make on the decision of the parks committee which will recommend allowance of the right-of-way to city council at its regular meeting on Thursday.

The major thought that any statement should come from the parks committee chairman although he did categorically deny a rumor which was being circulated at city hall to the effect that the city and the utility were working out a reciprocal deal.

The rumor had it that the city and B.C. Hydro were working out a deal on sharing the cost of putting Humber Green overhead wiring underground and that the Thetis right-of-way was a consideration in negotiations.

"If this is so I haven't heard of it," the mayor said. "There is no such deal so far as I know."

Humber Green Rumor Denied

Turkey Roll Holds Shape

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal researchers have found a way to make a pre-cooked turkey roll that will hold its shape to allow slicing when heated to serve.

An essential part of the processing technique is to beat pieces of turkey meat gently to force some natural tissue fluid to the surface.

The pieces are compressed into containers for cooking. The resulting rolls are then frozen to complete the process.

To serve hot the roll is taken out of cold storage and heated. It will hold its shape up to 200 degrees to allow for slicing even though it's made up of several pieces of meat.

The tissue fluid beaten to the surface binds the meat pieces together during the first cooking process.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am 20. My girl friend is 18. The problem is my girl friend's 15-year-old brother. This kid is completely out of control, and nobody does one thing about it.

When he yells at his mother she yells, "Dad, come and hit Clark." He yells back, "Hit him yourself. I'm busy." Then they get into an argument about who should hit Clark. Of course, nobody hits Clark, and he wins again.

Last night, my girl and I were sitting on the porch and this kid came up from behind and cracked her over the head with the telephone book. I was afraid he had fractured her skull. I lost my temper and gave him a wallop across the back. He began to howl and holler for his dad to come and whip me.

Both his dad and mother came running. They chewed me out for laying a hand on their son. My own parents said I shouldn't have hit him. Please tell me what to do in the future. Nothing but pain stops that kid. — PUSHED TOO FAR

Dear Pushed: You should not have hit Clark, but strictly between us, I'm glad you did. Somebody should have hit him twelve years ago.

Dear Ann: Three years ago my niece came to live with me after she lost her mother under tragic circumstances. The girl is an adorable, affectionate 12-year-old.

She is a good student but she dawdles and daydreams so much that it irritates me. I have to help her get her clothes in the morning or she'd never finish dressing. She pokes through breakfast and I almost have to spoon-feed her.

The child seems very happy with me. She has lovely friends and everything a young girl could wish for. I didn't have these problems with my own children. What am I doing wrong? Am I pushing her too hard? Please advise. — CLEVELAND

Dear Cleveland: The girl came to you when she was nine. Her patterns of behaviour were pretty well set. Then, too, her mother's tragic death may have had a traumatic effect on her. Something is off kilter. You should not be helping a 12-year-old get dressed. Obviously, the girl needs professional counsel. Call the Family Service Association for an appointment. Cleveland has an especially good agency.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm engaged to marry a captain in the Marine Corps. He is the most wonderful man in the world and I am very much in love with him.

Last week he told me some shattering news — he is still in love with the girl he went with before we became engaged. The girl broke up with him for a musician who later dropped her without notice and left town. My marine said his pride would not let him call the girl although he has wanted to many times.

What shall I do? He has not said he will not marry me but I get the idea he is getting cold feet. Please advise. — GIRL WITH A HEADACHE

Dear Girl: If you think you have a headache NOW just marry a man who tells you he's in love with someone else. Give the Marine an honorable discharge. He wants out.

Confidential: Should I Or Shouldn't I? I am no physician but an operation is correct.

Can a gentleman find happiness with Old Style Beer?

A very important question. Better consider it slowly and thoughtfully — over a glass of Old Style. While you're meditating, note the flavour. Bold, forthright. Yet there's nothing rough about it, is there? On the contrary, natural aging has made it mellow and mature. Gentle, in fact. That's it! Suddenly, the answer is clear and you realize... you're happy. This calls for another Old Style!

White House Agog with Excitement For Luci Johnson's Wedding Today

Canadian designer Donald Campbell used a British apricot and white houndstooth check wool cloth to make this swinging three-piece suit for the John Cavanagh ready-to-wear fall collection. The single-breasted edge-to-edge jacket has a small reverse collar and wrist-length set-in sleeves.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last sentimental touches were added, the bride party rehearsed, the White House primed and the church prepared Friday for today's wedding of Luci Baines Johnson and Patrick John Nugent.

The White House was agog with excitement as bride and bridesmaids put last-minute touches to their pink-and-white bridal gowns, their hair - dos and their parts in the big wedding at the Roman Catholic shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

Among the final pronouncements from the White House was word of the wedding day costumes to be worn by Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Gerald P. Nugent, the groom's mother.

SHORT DRESS

For Mrs. Johnson, it was an Adele Simpson short dress and coat ensemble, which the White House said was of "lemon silk" with a small reverse collar and wrist-length set-in sleeves.

The bridegroom's mother, selected an aquamarine alencon lace and net short coat and dress made for her by a home-state designer, Virginia Fiester of Lake Forest, Ill. She will wear a veil of the same French net, aquamarine peau de sole shoes, white kid gloves, white beaded bag and pearl earrings.

IN WHITE

Flower girl Betsey Howar, 5, daughter of friends of the bride, has an ankle-length white dress of tulle, with a small bow with tiny pink pearls on the front of the bodice and another bow back of her hair.

Ring bearer Lyndon (Corky) Hand, whose father, Lloyd, was former U.S. chief of protocol, was outfitted in a white corded cotton suit with short pants, a three-buttoned jacket and an Eton collar.

The White House announced that these will be the traditional items carried by the bride:

Something blue — A gold locket tied with a blue satin ribbon and belonging to Mrs. Gerard P. Nugent. The locket was given to Mrs. Nugent by her mother when her son, Gerard Jr., and Patrick, were small boys. It contains childhood pictures of the boys.

A sixpence for her shoes — A coin sent to her by Miss Adele Roscoe of Perth Amboy, N.B. This sixpence was the first of several of the small, silver English coins sent to Luci by well-wishers.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Richards, 800 Royal Oak Avenue, announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Linda Florence, to Mr. Robert Arthur White, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. TO PREVENT BITES

The mosquito population can be kept down at a cottage if all objects that hold water, which supply the insects with damp spots for breeding, are emptied whenever possible.

Parties Fete Bride

Miss Anita Poulsen has been feted at many showers prior to her wedding August 13. Mrs. Elva Bryant, the bride-elect's aunt, was hostess at her home at a miscellaneous shower. The guest of honor, her mother, Mrs. A. Poulsen and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. M. King, received pink rose corsages. A laundry basket, decorated as a wishing well, held the gifts. History Lesson On Cook's Tour

Motorists travelling B.C. highways are getting a new series of 40 history lessons from the provincial parks branch through their roadside signs.

Friday afternoon a new sign went up behind the legislative buildings adjacent to Superior Street.

Working for these capsules of history is the work of Les Cook who is supervising this project for the British Columbia Centennial.

BIRDCAVE SIGN

After huffing and puffing the sign into its mounting Mr. Cook explained this one commemorates the first legislative buildings nicknamed the Birdcages.

The wording on the cast aluminum plate tells the story briefly as follows: The Legislative Buildings for the Colony of Vancouver Island were built on these grounds in 1859. Nick-

Around Town

Woman Sights Silver Object

An Esquimalt woman reported Friday she has twice seen strange objects in the sky this week.

Mrs. Hester Wilkinson, 3393 Aloha Road, said she was with a friend about 9 p.m. Wednesday when she made the first sighting above Esquimalt Lagoon. She described it as "silver, silent, and cigar-shaped, about the size of a Zeppelin with three or four ruby-colored windows, travelling at a fairly fast speed in a straight line across the lagoon."

Thursday night she sighted another object "about the same color of the first one, yet not so long, having the same color and number of windows."

Burning permits in the city will be cancelled Monday unless there is rain over the weekend to lower the fire threat.

Deputy Fire Chief Eric Simons said unless there is rain, even screened incinerators will be too dangerous to be used. Saanich also is keeping a close eye on the situation.

The Red Cross is asking blood donors to make a special effort to attend clinics.

Clinic times at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort, are 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and 6:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Former Victoria Symphony conductor Melvin Knudsen will lead a concert orchestra in a program of light classics at 2:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon in the Cameron Bandshell at Beacon Hill Park.

Politicians Prepare Island Fight

All parties are ready to wage narrow victories over the NDP politics on Vancouver Island, following Premier Bennett's announcement of a provincial election Sept. 12.

"Maybe Bennett is going to take over B.C. Tel," thundered North Cowichan councillor George Whittaker, Liberal candidate.

Other opposition spokesmen suggested there was no issue at all in the election.

Ridings north of the Victoria are Comox, Nanaimo, Alberni, and Cowichan-Newcastle. The sitting member for Cowichan-Newcastle is opposition leader Robert Strachan, chief of the New Democrats.

Reports indicated he was out fishing Friday.

Nanaimo member of the legislature is David Stupich, who won his seat in a dramatic defeat of former Recreation and Conservation minister Earle Westwood.

"The NDP has been expecting an election call for some time," said Mr. Stupich. Earlier Friday he predicted the election would be held Sept. 12.

He said the Nanaimo riding NDP nominating convention will be held Aug. 12, one month before voting day.

Alberni riding is held by veteran MLA John Squire of the New Democrats.

In the last session of the legislature, he was involved in a verbal battle with Municipal Affairs minister Dan Campbell over pollution.

Mr. Campbell's riding is Comox, where he saw won

B.C. Pilots Wired For Sound

B.C. pilots now are wired for sound.

During the past month the men who guide merchant shipping through B.C.'s tricky waters have been gradually equipped with two-way radios which enable them to talk to the pilothouses and keep in touch with tugs.

Radios speed up operations and allow the pilots to maintain direct touch instead of using radios aboard the ships.

QORs Meet Tommies

About 65 men of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada at Work Point left by air for the B.C. interior today to engage in war games with British soldiers.

The men from Work Point will take part in commando training exercises with 80 British soldiers near Williams Lake.

The British soldiers, representing two regiments of the Special Air Service Group, will hike about 20 miles with the task of destroying an "enemy" objective held by the Queen's Own.

This is the first time the British group has been assigned to summer training in Canada. They will leave for Britain from Prince George, Aug. 16.

Lockout Action 'Very Slow To Implement'

The lockout, compared with a strike, is an unwieldy economic weapon and far more difficult to put into operation, a Victoria spokesman for the Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C. said Friday.

A union can take a strike vote among its locals, he said, and if the majority of ballots favor strike action then the strike deadline is set and that's about all there is to it.

LEGAL IMPLICATIONS

For an association such as the ACA, presently negotiating for 322 companies, each of the contractors involved must consider personal legal implications, the spokesman said.

"The lockout process is very slow, because each contractor must determine whether or not he has the legal right to conduct a lockout," he explained.

DEADLINE SET

The ACA set the lockout deadline for 4:30 p.m. last Wednesday.

The carpenters union is claiming the staggered shutdown times by the various contractors is proof of the disunity among the contractors, he added.

"This is not so, because all the major contractors in the Victoria area have now either put the lockout into effect or will as soon as possible."

STRIKE, LOCKOUT

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters earlier this month voted in favor of strike action. The major contractors an-

Bearcat Fastest

A record time for the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association's long distance race was set by Ken Keith aboard the Bearcat Friday night.

He made the 15 miles between Cattle Point and Esquimalt at the head of 35 contestants in just under two hours.

Royal Victoria Yacht Club took the first three places with Dick James' Lalanga second and E. Woodcock's Miramar third.

Between 75 and 80 boats will be on hand for sailing events at the club which continue today and Sunday.

Reunion Picnic

There will be a reunion picnic at 2 p.m. Sunday in Mt. Douglas Park for former residents of Roseland and Trail. Those attending should bring a picnic lunch.

Garden Notes

Trees for City Lots

By M. V. CHESNUT

One of the disadvantages of buying or building a brand new home as against purchasing an old house is the fact that the lot is almost sure to be treeless, for contractors and speculative builders nowadays seem to take a delight in bulldozing all the trees off so they can get a clear run at the building operations. Against the freshness and modernity of the new home, the new owner must start from scratch to landscape his property.

Trees of some sort are a must, of course, but selecting trees for a small city lot isn't easy. The less space there is available, the more carefully the tree must be chosen. And here, perhaps, the builder has shown good judgment in clearing the tract, for our native trees are seldom the right dimensions for a restricted space. With tree-planting time only a few months away, it is not too early to collect some nursery catalogues and start making a study of what is available.

One particularly dainty tree for the small garden is the winter-flowering plum, Prunus subhirtella autumnalis, with fragile-looking twigs which produce masses of pinky-white semi-double blossoms at intervals from November until early April.

This little fellow, never more than 15 feet tall, never surrenders to winter's blast—comes a mild spell and out pops a crop of blossoms, perfect for cutting for indoor decoration in winter. These wither and die in severe cold but are followed by another flush of bloom as soon as the weather moderates.

Prunus malahab, known as the St. Lucie cherry, is probably the most fragrant of all the smaller trees, bearing a profusion of sweetly scented blossoms in April and May. While rather rare and difficult to come by, there is a semi-weeping variety of this little fellow.

A graceful tree not too large for the medium-size town garden is our native Snowy Mesquit, Amelanchier canadensis, known also as the Shadblow or Serviceberry. Growing to 20 feet with a spread of about 10 feet, this one covers itself with attractive white blossoms before the tree leaves out. These are followed by purple fruits, very much like Saskatoons, ornamental but almost completely tasteless. The foliage turns yellow, then a glorious rich red in the autumn.

If I had room for it and the right kind of soil, I'd like to take a crack at growing Halesia carolina, the Snowdrop tree. It isn't easy to make this one at home in the average garden as it demands a deep, light soil which is well drained, on the dry side in winter but with ample moisture in summer—almost the reverse of what we can normally expect in our climate.

The Judas tree, Cercis siliquastrum, is a member of the pea family, and while it is not too tall for even a tiny garden it is a bit inclined to "middle-age spread." Nevertheless it is well worth growing for its pink or rusy purple pea-shaped blossoms. Another pea relative, excellent for the small garden, is Laburnum vossii, bearing long pendant clusters of "golden rain" blossoms in May and June.

Probably the most colorful of all our small flowering trees are found in the ranks of the ornamental crabapples. Canada's Centennial tree, the Almey Rosybloom crab, grows only to a height of 12 feet and bears fiery scarlet blossoms marked with a white star. Another Rosybloom crab called Royal has glossy reddish purple foliage, colorful even when out of bloom. Hard to find but a real gem for the small garden is Bechtel's Crab, with fully double blossoms in a good clear pink shade, and sweetly fragrant.

Arkin the New Sellers

LONDON (NANA)—Everyone is after Alan Arkin because of his huge hit in The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming. Alan is coming to Columbia to play Egin in the movie version of Lonesome Bert's Oliver. Peter Sellers was originally mentioned for the role but Arkin is now considered the new Sellers as Peter was originally thought of as the successor to Sir Alec Guinness. Don't be surprised if Georgia Brown is Nancy Sykes. Bart wrote the part for her, and it would be foolish to use anyone else.

Cary Grant has been laid low in his Bristol home with flu. Ought to be up and about soon and will then try to find a house it looks like a long stay. He will make more movies, but only if the right role comes along.

I can't understand why the British press was lukewarm about the hilarious play, The King's Men, with Glynis Johns giving the best performance of her life as Anne of Cleves to Keith Mitchell's Henry VIII. The young director, Peter Coo, will soon be making his first film—for Warner, who have bought Lock Up Your Daughters, the bawdy play that was very popular here a few years ago. Peter and his pregnant wife will be flying any day now to New York where he directs the national company of On A Clear Day You Can See Forever. The talented Coo directed The Miracle Worker in London and Oliver in New York. And he will be doing the same for Terry Thomas in the West End in The Three Musketeers. "What will Thomas play?" I asked. "D'Artagnan," was the incredible reply.

The biggest set ever and the costliest is being built at Pinewood, the inside of a volcano for You Only Live Twice. The price is $700,000. The set for this Bond picture that is being directed by Lewis Gilbert—"with a Bond, you have to suspend all your critical faculties, you just have fun"—will be "struck" after it is used in October. To prevent petty pirates from stealing and using for cheap films that could be rushed out ahead of the Sean Connery picture.

Betsy von Furstenberg is in town with a good-looking Norwegian actor in tow.

Most of the action in the new Audrey Hepburn-Albert Finney film takes place in the two front seats of a car on a drive through France. The prop boy with the clappers can't get in, so Audrey does it then presses a button on the dashboard which starts the sound. The director and cameraman follow right behind in another car. All sounds very difficult and I hope the result justifies the discomfort.

You can pick up a lot of news in the commissary of a British film studio. At Shepperton, the beautiful actress, Dahlia Lavi, was showing her younger sister the action that included Laurence Harvey lunching with his Hollywood lawyer, Maerlin Garg. Dahlia is Larry's co-star in The Spy with a Cold Nose. "I go back to Israel once a year," Miss Lavi, who lives in London, told me. "No more military service for me. Time to Live

SYDNEY HARRIS

What we call "the sense of time" is not only different for men and for women, for adults and for children, for the Occident and for the Orient—it is also vastly different for the urban and the rural regions. Unless you understand this, you will never get along in the country.

In his new book, The Psychology of Time, Professor Paul Fraissie of the Sorbonne points out that the proportion of people who wear a watch in any town increases as its population grows. Fewer farmers wear watches than townspeople, and fewer townspeople than city folk.

The rural rhythm is one of seasons more than of days or weeks. Crops grow slowly; nature moves with grave deliberation, and the closer to nature a man is, the more he tends to resist and resent socially imposed time.

When the man at the store says he hopes to get in a certain product in "a few days," it is generally no use going back a few days later—he probably meant a few weeks, if at all this season. And the mechanic may promise to have your car repaired by tomorrow—and mean it—but his promise is qualified by many factors unexpressed to you.

He means if the part he telephoned for shows up in time; if he isn't too busy with precious promises tomorrow; if his assistant doesn't go fishing; if he happens to think you really need it, and aren't just pressuring him because you're a high tension city slicker on vacation who wants everything done for him in snap-finger time.

Now part of this dilatory attitude, I am sure, springs from the urban long-standing hostility to it of it is dweller in his midst. ERMA BOBECK Slams The Door

Keep Fridges Private!

It isn't enough that I and I'm over-children and under-patience. It isn't enough that my hair and the ants are always in my kitchen. Now I've got a see-through refrigerator door. Offhand, I'd say he'd have more luck selling Edsel stock to Ralph Nader. The contents of a refrigerator aren't exactly show-window material unless you're a scientist and you get heady every time you see bacteria mate.

I've seen refrigerators that couldn't pass the 15-watt light bulb test, let alone the wide-screen in living green and brown.

I tell you it will never go. You have to understand women's refrigerators. If they were simply refrigerated boxes used to keep food cold, it would be different. But who wants to look at someone's laundry? Many women dampen, bag and store their clean hands will be prosecuted." "Meal worms and other animal foods are not permitted on the left-over shelf." "Report immediately any food that is not recognizable."

Theoretically, the reason for see-through doors is to tell at a glance the exact location of the item you wish to take out so you can reach in quickly, snatch it, and prevent excess heat entry.

In actuality, this would never work. You don't always recognize what you are looking for. Foods in advanced stages of decay and deterioration are sometimes not what they seem to be. For example, fresh garden peas on Monday may look like burnt tapocia by Wednesday and a penicillin factory by Friday.

I don't know. Maybe I've been a little rough on the see-through refrigerator door. It's just that it's hot and I've got those lousy ants and I'm afraid if men can push this through, next thing someone will want to put a light in my hall closet.

New Riot in Chicago

Knife for King Hits White Boy

Lava Lake Crash Kills Two

TERREACE (CP)—Two men were killed Friday when a light plane crashed near Lava Lake, 75 miles north of here. Dead are pilot Stuart E. Hicken, 31, of Kitimat, and Richard Warren Scott, 24, a former Trail resident who had been living at Kitimat. The plane left here Thursday night without filing a flight plan. The wreckage was discovered Friday by a commercial helicopter.

Cleanout Of Zone Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk has proposed strengthening the International Control Commission in Viet Nam to clean out the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam and safeguard the border of neighboring Cambodia.

"We would be glad to see the ICC move to clear the demilitarized zone of all military action" and to "assure the neutrality and territorial integrity of Cambodia," Rusk told a press conference.

At the same time, Rusk did not rule out the possibility that U.S. ground forces might range into the six-mile-wide neutral zone between North and South Viet Nam if U.S. commanders find this necessary.

NEW PROMINENCE
The demilitarized zone and the role of the ICC has assumed new prominence in the Southeast Asia conflict following American bombings in the heavily-jungled western part of the 50-mile strip.

Referring specifically to a Soviet protest note alleging a Russian ship at Haiphong, the North Vietnamese port, Rusk denied the American craft had struck anything but oil targets.

Hiroshima Relives A-Blast

HIROSHIMA (UPI)—Thirty thousand Hiroshima citizens assembled at the city's peace memorial park today on the 21st anniversary of the atom bomb blast and pledged anew their hopes for world peace.

The ceremonies opened when Mayor Shinsuke Hamada deposited in the cenotaph a new register of the names of 68 persons who died during the past year of sickness caused by atomic radiation and 482 others whose deaths at the time of the atom bomb have been confirmed.

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was struck with a rock and a white youth was wounded by a knife thrown at King as a riot erupted on Chicago's southwest side late Friday.

The knife was hurled as King, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, led 600 demonstrators on a march through a racially-terse middle class neighborhood.

Cherry bombs and rocks were thrown among the marchers by screaming, cursing, jeering residents of all-white Chicago Lawn. The marchers moved slowly down the street as thousands of residents rioted.

The white youth cut by the knife was taken away in a police car. Police said he was 16 or 17 years old.

STAB WOUND
The youth was bleeding badly from a stab wound in the neck. Hundreds of white residents sat in the street in front of the marchers. A cordon of policemen formed a flying wedge to charge through the seated groups.

Several persons were arrested. Others were injured. Fights broke out in and near the marchers as the demonstrators moved along a tree-lined street, six abreast.

FLAG WAVED
Some 250 white teenagers moved ahead of the march, carrying large confederate and U.S. flags.

More than 1,200 policemen attempted to control the white persons.

King was struck on the right side of the head as he emerged from a car in Marquette Park to line up the marchers in a demonstration against alleged housing discrimination.

IT HURTS
"It hurts, but it's not an injury," King shouted over the screaming crowd. He was not treated.

Shouts of "shoot him" were directed at King and the marchers were bombarded with missiles.

A barrage of rocks rained on the march from a bungalow and police charged into the house.

BRIEF FIGHT
Thousands of jeering white persons swarmed into the park as the demonstrators massed. Earlier, demonstrators and white youths fought briefly in the park after 30 white persons forced a marcher's car to the side of the road and tossed garbage into it.

The Chicago Lawn area erupted in violence Sunday as King's aides led 350 marchers into the Irish-Polish-Lithuanian middle-class neighborhood. Sixty persons were injured, 17 were arrested and 30 of the marchers' cars were burned.

'ONLY WAY'
White teenagers carried a sign reading: "The only way to end sums - exterminate Niggers."

White youths drove around in cars decorated with confederate flags and Ku Klux Klan signs, hunking their horns and yelling "white power."

Police Superintendent O. W. Wilson earlier had issued an order holding the entire police department day shift overtime. The city has a 10,000-man police department. Wilson did not indicate how many were on duty.

Police Capt. Thomas Noone, chief of the patrol division, said about 500 policemen were deployed in the area - "maybe more if we need them."

Labor's Popularity Plunge Said 'Without Precedent'

LONDON (LAT)—The popularity of the ruling Labor Party fell precipitously this week following savage deflationary action taken to fight Britain's economic crisis.

The National Opinion Poll found Labor's lead over the Conservatives had dropped in two weeks from 16.3 to 9.1 per cent.

More striking was a later Gallup Poll. From a 14.6 per cent victory in the March election and an 18 per cent lead in May, Gallup reported a statistically insignificant lead of one half per cent Friday. The fall over three months was "without precedent" in 36 years of polling experience, Gallup said.

U.S. Bombs Blast Haiphong's Radar

SAIGON (AP)—United States fighter-bombers attacked oil deposits and radar sites in the Haiphong area Friday and eluded six Soviet-made missiles during the raids, the U.S. command announced today.

Carrier-based planes hit the Do Son oil dump 17 miles southeast of Haiphong and pilots reported hits on several storage tanks.

Simultaneously, air force planes attacked radar sites 10 to 15 miles northwest of the port city. Results of the strikes were not announced.

Meanwhile, one of the largest U.S. ground forces ever massed in Viet Nam swept the central highlands Friday, seeking North Vietnamese regulars holed up in jungles or pulling back toward Cambodia.

As elements of the 10,000-man U.S. force manoeuvred in helicopters, bombers blasted suspected enemy positions in the Chu Phuong mountains four miles from the Cambodian border.

The purpose of the action was to prevent a monsoon drive. Somewhere in the hills and jungles, the Americans believed, are three North Vietnamese regiments.

Earlier, B-52s bombed targets in the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam. It was the fourth raid on the zone since Saturday.

Peking radio said the North Vietnamese government protested the raids Thursday and Friday to the International Control Commission of Canada, India and Poland.

U.S. planes in waves struck in North Viet Nam on this second anniversary of the first air raids on the North, but targets were not announced. Peking radio said two U.S. planes were shot down Friday in raids near the port of Haiphong.

North Viet Nam has shot down 1,287 American planes since the U.S. began air operations over the North two years ago, the New China news agency reported.

The agency said the total includes 48 downed over the North Viet Nam port of Haiphong—two of them Friday—and 21 over the capital, Hanoi.

'PEOPLE DESERVE CHANCE TO SPEAK'

By H. L. JONES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett Friday night called a provincial election for Sept. 12, the fifth since his Social Credit government first came to power in British Columbia in 1952.

He also announced that one of his major cabinet ministers, Health Minister Eric Martin, will not run because of ill health.

Mr. Bennett said at a press conference following his reading of a 13-minute election announcement that the opposition parties do not want an election. He said Robert Strachan, leader of the New Democratic Party, and Liberal Leader Ray

Perrault were critical of an election at this time "because they have found the people satisfied with this government."

"But we think the people should have a chance to speak."

NEW SEAT PLAN
He said this was particularly so in view of the redistribution of seats carried out at the last session increasing the legislature to 55 from 52 members. Standing at dissolution was Social Credit 32, NDP 14, Liberals 5. There was one vacant seat, North Okanagan, which had been held by Social Credit George McLeod, who died last December.

Mr. Bennett thus capped the province's 100th birthday year, and avoided an election in Canada's centennial year.

MANDATE NEEDED
In doing so he called for a "mandate to keep B.C. moving ahead." He said Social Credit had taken B.C. "out of a post-war rut and into the forefront of North American progress."

"A new seven-year plan" for further industrial expansion, and an acceleration of urban and rural development, was pledged.

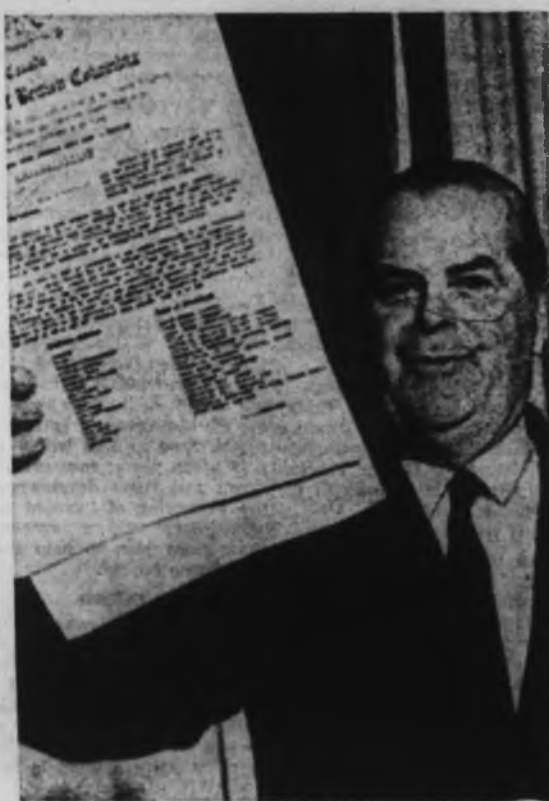

Liberal leader Ray Perrault earlier said Bennett's expected election call was for the purpose of "perpetuating his own pompous image."

'INSECURE PREMIER'
Robert Strachan, leader of the opposition New Democratic Party, said it was "the act of an insecure premier leading an unstable government."

Conservative president Stuart Fleming called it "an exercise in the unnecessary."

It will be the fourth provincial election in Canada this year. The others were in Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and Quebec.

Bennett and Proclamation

'Human Betterment' Campaign Promise By Social Credit

By TERRY ROBERTS

The lid is off a pot of election speculation that has been boiling in British Columbia for six months.

Premier Bennett declared the pot ready Friday night and presented his menu to voters: if you want to taste the goodies, put in your order at the polls Sept. 12.

Mr. Bennett has not yet presented his full menu—he will probably save most of his tidbits for the campaign trail—but announcements earlier this year indicate a trend toward what he terms "human betterment."

This program is a switch that began during the last legislature away from his former emphasis on highways and economic development. The new program involves hospitals, medical care, education and other life fields.

'Our Government Non-Partisan'
He said earlier that the only election issue is "the type of chaos they have in Ottawa which is built on partisanship—everybody supports our government because it is non-partisan."

The three major parties have been geared for an election for months, though Mr. Bennett's Social Credit party has yet to hold any nominating conventions.

B.C.'s Affluence 'Seen in People'

VANCOUVER (CP)—An economist from Eastern Canada said Friday he sees prosperity on the streets of Vancouver.

Dr. Anthony Wintermans, associate professor of economics at St. Francis Xavier University in Nova Scotia, said: "The difference in affluence between B.C. and the Maritimes is very, very obvious and you can even see it in the people on the streets."

Dr. Wintermans said B.C.'s development is staggering. He said his own province has a "retarded economy" but is developing methods of dealing with its problems.

Starving Primitives Riot In New Guinea Jungles

JAKARTA (AP)—Indonesia's primitive West Irian has been rocked by riots and near-revolt serious enough to send Foreign Minister Adam Malik to the scene as a mediator, reliable sources reported Friday.

He leaves next Friday for the Indonesian half of the huge island of New Guinea, an area formerly known as West New Guinea and taken over from the Dutch in 1962 after several months of fighting. Australia controls the other half.

Informants here gave this report: The people of West Irian began rioting because of a scarcity of food.

Special forces soldiers were deployed to West Irian about six weeks ago to help put down the fighting.

Reports reaching Jakarta said no food supplies of any consequence had been sent into the jungled area in three months. Tribesmen living in the jungle may survive but town dwellers were reported hard hit. West Irian has a population of about 700,000.

One newspaper reported that a single plate of rice was sold in the village of Mindipana for 450 rupiahs (about $4.50 at open market rates).

Reports that the fighting and rebellious mood of the people are serious appeared to be supported by reliable confirmation that Malik would visit the area as a mediator.

The reports of trouble came amid other reports of severe food shortages from the island of Bali and along the chain of smaller islands from Java toward West Irian. Unconfirmed reports said several hundred have died from a combination of starvation and smallpox epidemics in eastern Bali, Lombok and Timor.

Students have levelled strong criticisms at the government of these areas for failing to protect and provide for the people.

Bookie, Pals Become Cripple's Angels

LONDON (AP)—Bookie Joseph Smith and his friends came to the rescue Thursday night of a widowed polo victim who was fined £2 ($6) for driving her children to their babysitter in her one-seat invalid carriage.

converted so it can be driven by

A driving school in nearby Bracknell, where Mrs. Blyth and Smith live, promised her free instructions so she can qualify for a licence to operate her new car.

And Will Field started a campaign in Newbury for funds to service the car as long as Mrs. Blyth keeps it.

"The kindness of it all," said Mrs. Blyth, "Why, I just broke down and cried."

Mrs. Blyth said she had to work six hours a day as a secretary to support her children and had to leave them with a friend who lives two miles from her. She said she had little money and has asked the government for a disabled person's car but was told she could only qualify for the one-seater carriage.

Match-chomping Wickham on march

Furious Leaders Present Union's Case

By TED PULFORD

Thirty angry pulp mill workers Friday confronted officials of the provincial labor department with a demand for certification of their local of an independent Canadian Union.

The men, who are employees of Harmac, Nanaimo, spent almost an hour in conference with Deputy Labor Minister W. H. Sands.

In an interview following the confrontation, G. W. Wickham, president of Local 8, said "Our union applied for certification May 13, because we had 95 per cent of the 1,000 workers at the mill signed up."

A Labor Relations Board hearing in Vancouver Aug. 2 rejected the application on what Mr. Wickham claimed was a technicality.

"Following a Thursday night meeting," Mr. Wickham said, "we asked for a meeting with management but they decided not to talk with us because we aren't the certified bargaining agents for the mill."

"We came here," Mr. Wickham said, "to impress upon the department the seriousness of the situation. We represent the majority of the men in the plant but have been denied the right to vote on our own future."

Company Must Deal With International

NANAIMO — The vice-president of industrial relations for MacMillan Bloedel, A. C. Kennedy, said "The company is innocently involved in what is purely and simply a fight for power between two unions."

"This is a classic example of industry being penalized through no fault of its own by inter-union strife. In recent years we have witnessed far too many inter-union fights of this nature in British Columbia, which have resulted in serious damage to the economy of this province."

Despite the ruling by the B.C. Labor Relations board that the Canadian union is not a certified trade union, representatives of this group demanded a meeting with the management.

Mr. Kennedy said: "The management had no choice but to advise these representatives that it could not deal with them because Local 8 of the Canadian union is not certified as bargaining agent."

He set out at daybreak in choppy water to Mittenach Island, where fishermen often seek refuge during storms.

When he didn't find anything, he alerted RCMP. At 9:30 a.m. police notified air-sea rescue and local airlines.

They searched until 4 p.m. Thursday.

During all this time, the boat was beached. After a pin broke, the Kindgrans had secured the craft and driven home.

Mr. Kindgran then did his shift as a baker, and then went to bed for a good night's rest.

He had forgotten the name of the rental firm, so didn't call. At the height of the search Mr. Kindgran drove up to Ken's Boat Rental, and was surprised to hear about the fuss.

"The hall is booked solid during August, September and October for roller skating, dancing, Teen Town activities, centennial celebration and curling."

Mr. Kane said, "I shall try to get a figure skating club going and next summer we hope to have road shows and a variety of other shows. Promoters of the various ventures are very pleased with the new interior of our hall."

The installation of new wash-room facilities will have difficulty noticeable during the fall fair next month.

The new manager, who Eleanor Rigby starts from recently retired from the armed forces, said he has had considerable experiences with recreation during the past years.

'Next Time Harmac Closes'

Workers Demonstrate, March for Certification

By AGNES FLETT

NANAIMO — The Canadian union of Pulp and Paperworkers has threatened to close the MacMillan Bloedel operation at Harmac over a certification dispute.

Members of the union showed their muscle when they staged a mass meeting and short march Friday.

The incident occurred as the day shift was about to go to work. The march and meeting closed down the sawmill.

SHIFT WENT BACK

A vote, not unanimous, sent the day shift to work at 9:30 a.m.

But Gordon Wickham, president of Local 8 of the Canadian union, made it clear if Labor Minister Peterson does not yield to the local's demands, there will be another mass march.

MILL MAY CLOSE

And if this action is taken, the local will probably shut down the big pulp mill.

The local wants cancellation of the certification of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

The Canadian union, which claims to have signed up a large percentage of the Harmac workers, wants certification.

PETITION SIGNED

Workers began to gather at Harmac gates at 7 a.m. They started a mass meeting to sign a petition to the labor minister. The leaders demanded company officials meet with the men. At 8 a.m., the day shift refused to go to work.

ROAD JAMMED

The road to the pulp mill was jammed for more than one mile with workers and cars.

Company officials had to walk to work. Office girls also had to plod the distance because of the jam-up. They got a good share of wolf-whistles as the mass of men opened to let them through.

LEADERS MET

Workers milled about, trying to find out what was happening. The leaders were meeting to decide what action to take. MacMillan Bloedel officials refused to come to the gate to meet the men.

SAWMILL SHUT

The big sawmill which works in conjunction with the pulp operation was closed tight when the night shift came off work and the day shift stayed at the meeting.

The pulp mill kept operating during the meeting, because the night shift must stay for a minimum of four hours overtime if the day shift does not appear.

After the signing, the workers began their march to Victoria. It lasted half a mile, and another meeting was held.

Workers decided to postpone the march until it is more organized, and until Crofton local of the Canadian union can back up the march.

All parties are ready to wage politics on Vancouver Island, following Premier Bennett's announcement of a provincial election Sept. 12.

"Maybe Bennett is going to take over B.C. Tel.," thundered North Cowichan councillor George Whittaker, Liberal candidate in the last provincial election.

Other opposition spokesmen suggested there was no issue at all in the election.

● Ridings north of the Victoria are Comox, Nanaimo, Alberni, and Cowichan-Newcastle. The sitting member for Cowichan-Newcastle is opposition leader Robert Strachan, chief of the New Democrats.

Reports indicated he was out fishing Friday.

● Nanaimo member of the legislature is David Stupich, who won his seat in a dramatic defeat of former Recreation and Conservation minister Earle Westwood.

"The NDP has been expecting an election call for some time," said Mr. Stupich. Earlier Friday he predicted the election would be held Sept. 12.

He said the Nanaimo riding NDP nominating convention will be held Aug. 12, one month before voting day.

● Alberni riding is held by veteran MLA John Squire of the New Democrats.

In the last session of the legislature, he was involved in a verbal battle with Municipal Affairs minister Dan Campbell over pollution.

Mr. Campbell's riding is Comox, where he has won narrow victories over the NDP in the last two campaigns.

A Social Credit worker in Campbell River, Rita Farrell, since Friday: "Dan is a very sincere young man, and he has always been sincerely interested in his riding."

● Neville Shanks, Alert Bay editor, is the New Democratic candidate in Comox. He was in Nanaimo when the premier's announcement was made.

Miss Farrell defended the election call, commenting: "to have redistribution you must have representation."

● Coun. Whittaker, Grit

But Don Morton, reeve of North Cowichan and Social Credit candidate in Cowichan-Newcastle in the last provincial campaign, said: "I'm sorry this election came so soon."

He said there will be a liberal nominating convention in two weeks.

Receptionist Aimed, Fired And Cougar Toppled Dead

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD — It was a case of ladies first when a sheep-killing cougar was tracked down on Salt Spring.

Delia Lutton, 20, a receptionist, became the first woman to shoot one of the big cats on Salt Spring.

Her companions were Bob and Ted Akerman.

"They asked me if I wanted to shoot. I fired, and the cougar fell dead at my feet. It was only then that I realized what I had done."

The six-foot-six-inch male cougar had been seen several times in the Beaver Point area in the past month.

The Akermans and Miss Lutton took cougar hunt Red, a young dog, for its first hunt.

"The cat was tracked into high country. On the southwest slope of Mount Bruce the party found another dead sheep, still warm."

It was early evening.

"This was an experienced cougar," said Bob Akerman. "The sheep was killed cleanly, at the throat."

As the three looked at the sheep, the cougar lunged from bushes 50 yards away, and ran. Red raced after, and chased the cat up a tree. "The dog acted very well," said Bob Akerman.

Miss Lutton, who works in the office of Dr. Margery Janach in Ganges, killed the animal with one shot of her .30-30.

"It was very exciting," said Miss Lutton, "quite an experience."

The man was charged with having sexual intercourse with his 18-year-old daughter on July 9 and with his 10-year-old daughter on July 17.

Nobody Searched His Bed

CAMPBELL RIVER — While searchers combed the waters for a missing fisherman, the fisherman slept peacefully in bed.

A dramatic two-day search operation ended when Campbell River baker Lloyd Lindgren returned to Ken's Boat Rental and told the owner where to find the boat.

While aircraft searched the shores and waters, the boat was peacefully beached behind the Campbell River Brakwater.

Ken Forde, owner of the boat rental, said Lindgren rented a boat Wednesday.

He claimed they indicated they would return before dark.

Mr. Forde waited until 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, then telephone RCMP. He set out with a searchlight to look for the Lindgrens. He went to the Cape Mudge area.

Action Is Varied at Qualicum

By DENNIS DONNELLY

QUALICUM BEACH — Once again this summer, Qualicum Village Coffeehouse is delighting audiences with a wide variety of entertainment.

Although the basic entertainment of coffeehouses is traditionally folk music, co-managers Jim Johnson and Harry Aoki are striving to supplement it with other entertainment.

The coffeehouse was opened last summer, with Johnson and Aoki providing a large part of the fare with their original adaptations of folk songs, spirituals, and work songs.

The two are once again providing some of the music, but they have brought in other acts to keep the format interesting.

This season they have presented Michael and Jacques Sears, who performed folk ballet, acting out songs sung by Johnson.

Also on the program has been Alistair Hight, who played harpsichord and presented selections from early musical manuscripts, as well as being joined by Johnson and Aoki for some excursions into the field of Manager and ice maker Ray Kane said, "The building was completely refurbished with the aim to use it all year around for various recreational activities."

"The hall is booked solid during August, September and October for roller skating, dancing, Teen Town activities, centennial celebration and curling."

Mr. Kane said, "I shall try to get a figure skating club going and next summer we hope to have road shows and a variety of other shows. Promoters of the various ventures are very pleased with the new interior of our hall."

No Cigarettes Said Girl, And Duncan Man Hit Her

DUNCAN — James Thorne of Duncan who pleaded not guilty earlier to a charge of assault, involving a 10-year-old baby sitter, was convicted Friday. He received a two-year suspended sentence.

Magistrate Lance Heard also imposed a $1,000 bond to keep the peace.

NO LIQUOR

Other conditions imposed by the magistrate were no alcohol, and to report regularly to the probation officer.

The offence took place during the night of June 25.

Thorne is the father of five young children.

He had been drinking heavily the afternoon and evening of the offence.

NEVER HIT

Mrs. Thorne said "He had been drinking at 2:30 p.m. 'He started to go asleep or pass out."

"He's never hit the children when he was drunk," she said. "He must have thought the little girl was our own little girl."

Both Jim and his brother Larry had been drinking at Larry Thorne's house during the evening of the offence.

TWO WENT OUT

Later, his brother and his wife went out.

Mrs. Thorne, his mother, testified he had never hit the children, "not when he was drunk; not when he was sober."

GIRL ESCAPED

Thorne had gone to his brother's house asking for cigarettes, and when the baby-sitter said there was no cigarettes, he started to hit her and pulled her out of the house.

She escaped, ran back to the house and locked the door.

another entrance, an open window.

Thorne broke in through the open window, beating and tearing the girl's clothing as he dragged her out.

Testifying on his own behalf, Jim Thorne said he remembered only two events of that evening, being at a hotel and being waken up by the constable.

He claimed it wasn't an unusual thing for him to lose his memory when he had been drinking.

"I don't remember any scratches," he said.

He also stated he could have hit someone when he was drunk.

For 79th Time: Tennis, Anyone?

DUNCAN — For the 79th time, tennis players from Western Canada and the Western States will compete in the Vancouver Island and Championship and the Pacific Northwest Sectionals.

The popular competition draws many seasoned players every year, who favor the picturesque courts of the South Cowichan lawn tennis club near Cowichan Bay.

Last year 200 persons including players and their families took part in a variety of social gatherings which are a welcomed sideline of the tournament.

The local club is the oldest in the Pacific Northwest.

The first tournament was played in 1888.

Club secretary Art Stevenson said "In 1962 the club celebrated its Diamond Jubilee tournament, and we are now optimistically on our course toward the centennial in 1967."

"We are sparing no effort to maintain the same high standards of tennis and South Cowichan hospitality that has made this tournament an event in the Pacific Northwest."

Weather Still Dry In Nanaimo Area

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo weather office reports there has been no measurable precipitation since July 25.

As a result, sprinkling regulations have gone into effect in at least two local water districts. In the North Wellington area, residents south and east of Ross Road sprinkle on the even days, residents of Wellington village and the areas north, on the odd days.

North Cedar waterworks subscribers may now sprinkle only between the hours of 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. And the five-day forecast says no rain before Tuesday.

World Tourists Ask Directions

QUALICUM BEACH — Visitors and tourists from France, England, Scotland, Northern Ireland, Portugal, Germany, many from the United States, and across Canada, have registered at the tourist bureau in the six weeks the bureau has been open this season.

K. H. Doolittle, bureau manager, reports 240 registrations this week, with a total of 1,000 since June 24, the opening date.

ERRINGTON — Women members of the Errington and District Volunteer Fire Department had a real workout recently.

They practised ladder work at the Errington War Memorial Hall, climbing to the roof, and then went to the home of A. Kathari on Grafton Avenue where an old shed was being burned down.

They manned the pump, got out the hoses and proceeded to protect surrounding property, and finally doused the fire.

Taking part were Mrs. Ralph

Shaw, Mrs. H. Farrell, Mrs. G. Ware, Mrs. H. Hollins and Mrs. G. Pattison.

ERRINGTON — An accident that involved three cars sent two women to hospital.

It happened at the intersection of Errington Road and Grafton Avenue.

A car driven by Joseph R. Rathbeber of Kitimat was stopped on Errington Road at the intersection, asking directions. A second car, driven by Henry Peter Bailey of Qualicum Beach, stopped behind the first car, when a third car, driven by Randy F. Shekdrake ran into the rear of the second car forcing it into the rear of the first.

Damage to the cars is estimated as in excess of $1,600. Two passengers in the Shekdrake car, Mrs. Joyce Swan of Port Alberni, and Miss Maude Thomas of Aboumat, were injured in the mishap, and were taken to Nanaimo Hospital, where they were reported to be in fair condition.

Heavy Swim Schedule

COURTENAY — Following hard on the heels of the recent successes in swim meets this season, members of the Courtenay Recreation Association have a heavy program facing them this month.

It starts with the Island summer club zone championships at Campbell River this weekend.

Seventy-five local swimmers will be travelling to Campbell River on each day of the meet, and will be trying to place to qualify them to compete at the British Columbia championships at Vancouver later in the season.

The top three swimmers and divers in each event as well as the top two relays in each age group will qualify for the B.C. meet.

Saturday's heats for this weekend's meet will begin at noon with finals in the evening. On Sunday heats will begin at 10 a.m. with the finals in the afternoon.

The last of the four-day meets will also be held at Campbell River on Aug. 16, when the trophy will be presented to the top club.

Courtenay has a total of 1,270 points, a lead of 584 over second-place Campbell River.

Following that meet, the local swimmers will be faced by the annual Comox Valley Swimming and Diving Championships which will take place at the Courtenay pool Aug. 29.

Mill Smoke Continues To Fill Air

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

Deadline for smoke elimination at Plummer Bay was midnight Friday but, according to residents in the district, it would not be met.

Smoke was still emanating from one burner on the Plummer Bay Sawmills Ltd. property late Friday afternoon.

Metropolitan Board of Health representatives visited the mill Friday and found one burner consuming bark refuse and giving off smoke.

ONE CLOSED DOWN
The mill originally had two burners but one was closed down on deadline by order of the board of health.

Nearby residents have complained about smoke and fallout from the mill for more than a year. Action was taken by the health board and one of the two beehive burners was dismantled this summer. Equipment was installed and chips and shavings trucked away for pulp conversion.

BURNING REDUCED

In April, the board was told that burning had been cut down from 60 to five tons a day and that further equipment was being installed to eliminate burning altogether.

At the June meeting of the board's solicitors said that burning would cease as of Aug. 5.

MANY COMPLAINTS

Reports received Friday were that the machinery was in motion to eliminate burning but that it would continue beyond the deadline. It was also reported that the board of health was receiving many complaints from residents in the district.

Linda Bamford, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bamford, 271 Glenairlie Drive, said Friday afternoon there was still smoke in the air.

"I can smell it but, of course, we have got so used to it now that sometimes you don't realize that it is present," Linda said.

SMOKE 'TERRIBLE'

Mrs. D. T. Rix, 655 Craigflower, said the smoke has been "terrible" in the past week.

"There is a breeze right now and it is blowing away but I can still smell it quite strongly," she said.

"The burners are still working and the smoke is still pouring into the air," said Lloyd Smith, who lives on Portage Inlet.

NO ACTION CONSIDERED

Assistant Medical Officer of Health Dr. T. J. Bailey said Friday afternoon that so far as he knew the midnight deadline could still be met by the company.

Dr. Bailey said that no action by the Metropolitan Board of Health would be considered until after the deadline passed.

By WILLIAM THOMAS

If any art experts have doubts about the authenticity of the Goya sketch book bequeathed to the Greater Victoria Art Gallery they are not shared by bank manager George Maycock.

The treasure given to the gallery by the late Johannes Klaverwyden is locked in the Bank of Montreal's Government Street branch vault.

Friday afternoon it was taken out for half an hour and then duly put away with signatures affixed to a special seal. After all, Mr. Maycock is also the gallery president.

What does a $500,000 art masterpiece look like? From the outside it seems like a small leather wallet stuffed with rough paper.

Goya used a household account book popular with 18th century housewives to sketch his brush and pen drawings.

On the first page there still are figures arranged in order with their total totted up at the bottom as if Goya at first thought used it for his own calculations.

The drawings are witty, sad and sometimes quite caustic but all done in excellent style.

Questioned on plans to show the drawings when they have been mounted, gallery director Colin Graham said, "We will have to find space for them" but when pressed for a statement on possible plans for a new building Mr. Graham smiled and said, "We always need more space."

Five Medallion-Seekers Find Esquimalt Cache

Another centennial medallion was ferreted out Thursday by gimlet-eyed Victoria treasure-seekers.

It was the third of five gold medallions the size of 50-cent pieces to be found in the Greater Victoria Centennial Society's Quest of the Century treasure hunt.

A medallion, engraved with the B.C. dowry on one side, and a maple leaf on the other, was hidden in each of the five Greater Victoria municipalities.

IN PARK

Clues for each of the hidden medallions were publicized and the hunt was on.

Thursday night, five young sleuths solved the Esquimalt clues — An old Catholic mission area; Hunt beneath the Union Jack — and found the medallion worth $100 on top of a plaque on the memorial stand in the municipality's memorial park.

Finders of the Esquimalt medallion were: Brian Watt, 4017 McLellan; Robert Burnett, 1288 Montrose; Linda Mills, 631 Selkirk; Dawn Griffin, 1720 Newton; Leona Mahoney, 4034 McLellan.

The Central Saanich medallion was found earlier by Philip Shelton, 4619 Vansireight.

The medallion which had been hidden in the municipality of Oak Bay was located by David Robertson, 14, of 1770 St. Ann.

Only two medallions remain hidden — Victoria's and the one in Saanich — but each is worth $100 to the finder.

Swimmer Hauled From Lake

A 16-year-old Langford youth was saved from drowning by the quick action of friends Friday evening.

Rocky Bertucci, of 1147 Goldstream Avenue, was swimming in Glen Lake with a group of friends when he failed to surface at about 10:30 p.m.

His friends pulled him from the lake and called Langford ambulance, who took him to St. Joseph's Hospital.

He was conscious at the hospital, but was expected to be detained overnight for a check-up.

Deadline Near

The University of Victoria reminded prospective students Friday that applications for admission to the fall term must be submitted by Aug. 15.

Lectures begin Sept. 19.

City Losing MLA

Parties Ready To Nominate

Election fever will produce a rash of nominating conventions in Greater Victoria during the next week or two.

Most interesting meeting shaping up here will be that of the Victoria constituency Social Credit association, which must drop one of three incumbent Members from the slate because of this year's redistribution act.

Wakko Skillings, Donald Smith and works minister Chant have kept Victoria sewn up tight for Social Credit.

MEETING TODAY

All three have said they are willing to run again if nominated. But redistribution will give Victoria only two seats in the next legislature after the Sept. 12 election.

Constituency president Hugh Ramsey announced Friday following Premier Bennett's election announcement that the executive will meet today and likely set the date of a nomination meeting.

It will probably come between the 18th and 22nd of August.

Mr. Skillings has held his seat since 1960. Mr. Smith since 1956 and Mr. Chant since 1953.

BIRTHDAY

If nominated and elected, Mr. Smith would have extra cause to celebrate his 47th birthday Sept. 12.

So far the only candidates nominated in Greater Victoria have been in Esquimalt riding.

John Bartanus, a logger and chairman of the Sooke School Board, will campaign for the New Democratic Party.

David Elrick, an insurance executive, was nominated by the Liberals this week.

UNOPPOSED?

They will likely face Herbert Bruch, at age 46 a veteran of 13 years in the seat for the Social Credit party.

Within 10 minutes of Premier Bennett's announcement Friday, constituency president H. F. Williams announced that a nominating meeting will be held Aug. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in Colwood Community Hall.

Mr. Bruch is expected to be unopposed for the nomination.

FORMS OUT

In Victoria constituency, Liberal association president Robert Dudley promised an announcement "very shortly."

The NDP has sent out nomination forms but has not fixed the date of a meeting.

There has been no word from the Conservatives.

In Oak Bay, incumbent Liberal Alan MacFarlane will likely be nominated again. The 42-year-old lawyer has held the seat since 1960. A scored was runner-up in 1963.

SAANICH

Saanich scored John Tisdalle, holder of the seat since 1953, faces a contest from the NDP at least.

NDP association president Ian Campbell said Friday: "We will have a candidate in the field."

Date of a nomination meeting is expected today.

Scots Returning After Course

Eighteen militiamen of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) return to the Bay Street Armoury at 4:30 p.m. today after completing a five-week course in signals, driving and infantry exercises at Camp Wainwright, Alberta.

Member Silence Scorned

Failure of MPs to speak on Viet Nam continued to raise comment Friday as organizers prepared for a conference at St. John's Anglican Church Hall at 9 a.m. today.

Sponsors of the conference were concerned about the fact that none of four Vancouver Island Members of Parliament invited to share the speaker's stand seemed likely to do so.

AS OBSERVER

Victoria MP David Groos has stated he will avoid the meeting entirely (after earlier announcing he would speak) because of fears that the conference would develop into "an arena for anti-United States sentiment."

Esquimalt-Saanich member George Chatterton has said he will attend only as an observer.

Said Geoffrey Mitchell: "I don't think this will be a particularly anti-American affair. We are not against the people of the United States."

NO POLICY?
"Mr. Groos is showing a lack of courage. He should at the very least be willing to listen to what some citizens in his area think of this, even if he's unable to contribute a word on Canada's policy... perhaps because Canada has no real policy."

A. G. Coning declared it "a great pity" that Mr. Groos would not attend. "I would think that someone like Mr. Groos, with a long and distinguished service career, would want to see the Geneva convention adhered to."

Pancake Brunch
A pancake brunch will be held Sunday by the Royal Order of Moose, at the Moose Hall, 524 Fort, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The public is welcome.

Independent School Will Teach By New Methods

Plans for a new independent school which will emphasize personal development were announced Friday by Victoria lawyer David Hummel.

About 20 five- and six-year-olds will be enrolled Sept. 6 at Craigdarroch School, 1075 Joan Crescent.

Mr. Hummel, chairman of the school's directors, said the school will be bilingual and ungraded.

NEW METHODS

He said the school will employ new methods of teaching which are still years away from filtering into the public school system.

First teacher will be Mrs. Jean Purcell, a graduate of the University of B.C. now working on a degree in psychology at the University of Victoria.

Said Mr. Hummel in making his announcement:

"Craigdarroch School will not be an experimental school or a school devoted to weird or speculative theories."

SOUND PRINCIPLES
"It will be based upon the soundest possible principles of education now known and understood and accepted by a wide number of thoroughly responsible educators."

Co-directors with Mr. Hummel are psychiatrist Dr. Charles Gregory and Mr. Hummel's business partners, Siegfried Marquardt and William Osland.

Among the 10-man board of advisers are John Porteous, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, and Dr. Steinn W. Steinson, former lecturer at the University of Victoria on education of the gifted and a lifelong student of the subject.

League Protests Viet Nam War

City police investigated complaints about members of the Peace Action League on more than one occasion Friday night, but league members were still continuing their all-night vigil at the legislative buildings when last heard from. They were planning to stand five-hour shifts, to end at 8:30 this morning, as a protest on the Viet Nam war situation. — (Robin Clarke)

There comes a time when the beliefs of nature lovers, no matter how sincere, must be weighed against common sense, said Ald. Robert Baird Friday, commenting on the controversial Thetis Lake Park issue.

Defending the action of the city hall parks committee, of which he is chairman, in voting to allow B.C. Hydro to cut a right-of-way swath across the southern tip of the park, Ald. Baird said that there was no need for apprehension.

The 1,100-foot-long, 100-foot-wide allowance would not desecrate the park, the alderman said.

"Any person sincerely interested in examining the facts will discover that shaving 56 trees from the southern, isolated fringe, containing 31.06 acres, and separated from the main park by the Trans-Canada Highway, is a good swap for 1,200 trees on 48.9 acres adjoining provincial Francis Park and city-owned Thetis Lake Park," he said.

The "swap" referred to the fact that, in return for the right-of-way, B.C. Hydro offered title to the northern tract to which the public now has access rights.

"There comes a time when we must weigh common sense against the beliefs, no matter how sincere, of nature lovers who, I'm afraid, would deny their own brothers the amenities and comforts of modern power usage notwithstanding the economic growth of southern Vancouver Island."

Mayor Toone had no comment to make on the decision of the parks committee which will recommend allowance of the right-of-way to city council at its regular meeting on Thursday.

The mayor thought that any statement should come from the parks committee chairman although he did categorically deny a rumor which was being circulated at city hall to the effect that the city and the utility were working out a reciprocal deal.

The rumor had it that the city and B.C. Hydro were working out a deal on sharing the cost of putting Humber Green overhead wiring underground and that the Thetis right-of-way was a consideration in negotiations.

"If this is so I haven't heard of it," the mayor said. "There is no such deal so far as I know."

Lava Lake Crash Kills Two

TERRACE (CP)—Two men were killed Friday when a light plane crashed near Lava Lake, 35 miles north of here.

Dead are pilot Stuart E. Hicken, 31, of Kitimat and Richard Warren Scott, 24, a former Trail resident who had been living at Kitimat.

The wreckage was discovered Friday by a commercial helicopter.

Cleanout Of Zone Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk has proposed strengthening the International Control Commission in Viet Nam to clean out the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam and safeguard the border of neighboring Cambodia.

"We would be glad to see the ICC move to clear the demilitarized zone of all military action" and to "assure the neutrality and territorial integrity of Cambodia," Rusk told a press conference.

At the same time, Rusk did not rule out the possibility that U.S. ground forces might range into the six-mile-wide neutral zone between North and South Viet Nam and South Viet Nam commanders find this necessary.

NEW PROMINENCE

The demilitarized zone, and the role of the ICC has assumed new prominence in the Southeast Asia conflict following American bombings in the heavily-jungled western part of the 50-mile strip.

Referring specifically to a Soviet protest note alleging a Russian ship at Haiphong, the North Vietnamese port, had been hit by U.S. planes, Rusk denied the American aircraft had struck anything but oil targets. He said the United States refused to accept the Moscow note because "the abusiveness" of its wording flouted diplomatic practice.

Pilot Dies Plane Safe

TOKYO (UPI)—The pilot of a KLM Royal Dutch Airways DC8 jet liner died at the controls early today seconds before the big jet was to touch down at Tokyo airport. A fast-thinking co-pilot wrested the controls from the dead man to avert an almost certain crash.

Officials said the plane, en route from Amsterdam to Manila, had 56 passengers aboard.

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was struck with a rock and a white youth was wounded by a knife thrown at King as a riot erupted on Chicago's southwest side late Friday.

The knife was hurled at King, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, led 600 demonstrators on a march through a racially-tense middle class neighborhood.

Cherry bombs and rocks were thrown among the marchers by screaming, cursing, jeering residents of all-white Chicago Lawn. The marchers moved slowly down the street as thousands of residents rioted.

The white youth cut by the knife was taken away in a police car. Police said he was 16 or 17 years old.

STAB WOUND

The youth was bleeding badly from a stab wound in the neck. Hundreds of white residents sat in the street in front of the marchers. A cordon of police formed a flying wedge to charge through the seated groups.

Several persons were arrested. Others were injured. Fights broke out in and near the marchers as the demonstrators moved along a tree-lined street, six abreast.

FLAGS WAVED

Some 250 white teen-agers moved ahead of the march, carrying large confederate and U.S. flags.

More than 1,200 policemen attempted to control the white persons.

King was struck on the right side of the head as he emerged from a car in Marquette Park to line up the marchers in a demonstration against alleged housing discrimination.

"It hurts, but it's not an injury," King shouted over the screaming crowd. He was not treated.

Shouts of "shoot him" were directed at King and the marchers were bombarded with missiles.

A barrage of rocks rained on the march from a bungalow and police charged into the house.

BRIEF FIGHT

Thousands of jeering white persons swarmed into the park as the demonstrators massed. Earlier, demonstrators and white youths fought briefly in the park after 30 white persons forced a marcher's car to the side of the road and tossed garbage into it.

The Chicago Lawn area erupted in violence Sunday as King's aides led 350 marchers into the Irish-Polish-Lithuanian middle-class neighborhood. Sixty persons were injured, 17 were arrested and 30 of the marchers' cars were burned.

ONLY WAY

White teen-agers carried a sign reading: "The only way to end slums - exterminate Niggers."

White youths drove around in cars decorated with confederate flags and Ku Klux Klan signs, hooting their horns and yelling "white power."

Police Superintendent O. W. Wilson earlier had issued an order holding the entire police department day shift overtime. The city has a 10,000-man police department. Wilson did not indicate how many were on duty.

Police Capt. Thomas Noone, chief of the patrol division, said about 500 policemen were deployed in the area — "maybe more if we need them."

CNR Changes Time-Tables

MONTREAL (CP)—The CNR announced Friday it will introduce time-tables using the 24-hour clock system, beginning Oct. 30.

Labor's Popularity Plunge Said 'Without Precedent'

LONDON (LAT)—The popularity of the ruling Labor Party fell precipitously this week following savage deflationary action taken to fight Britain's economic crisis.

The National Opinion Poll found Labor's lead over the Conservatives had dropped in two weeks from 16.3 to 8.1 per cent.

More striking was a later Gallup Poll. From a 14.6 per cent victory in the March election and an 18 per cent lead in May, Gallup reported a statistically insignificant lead of one half per cent Friday. The fall over three months was "without precedent" in 20 years of polling experience, Gallup said.

U.S. Bombs Blast Haiphong's Radar

SAIGON (AP)—United States fighter-bombers attacked oil deposits and radar sites in the Haiphong area Friday and slanted six Soviet-made missiles during the raids, the U.S. command announced today.

Carrier-based planes hit the Do Son oil dump 37 miles southeast of Haiphong and pilots reported hits on several storage tanks.

Simultaneously, air force planes attacked radar sites 10 to 15 miles northwest of the port city. Results of the raids were not announced.

Meanwhile, one of the largest U.S. ground forces ever massed in Viet Nam swept the central highlands Friday, seeking North Vietnamese regulars holed up in jungles or pulling back toward Cambodia.

As elements of the 10,000-man U.S. force maneuvered in helicopters, bombers blasted suspected enemy positions in the Chu Phung mountains four miles from the Cambodian border.

The purpose of the action was to prevent a monsoon drive. Somewhere in the hills and jungles, the Americans believed, are three North Vietnamese regiments.

Earlier, B-52s bombed targets in the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam. It was the fourth raid on the zone since Saturday.

Peking radio said the North Vietnamese government protested the raids Thursday and Friday to the International Control Commission of Canada, India and Poland.

U.S. planes in waves struck North Viet Nam on this second anniversary of the first air raids on the North, but targets were not announced. Peking radio said two U.S. planes were shot down Friday in raids near the port of Haiphong.

North Viet Nam has shot down 1,267 American planes since the U.S. began air operations over the North two years ago, the New China news agency reported.

The agency said the total includes 48 downed over the North Viet Nam port of Haiphong—two of them Friday—and 21 over the capital, Hanoi.

B.C.'s Affluence 'Seen in People'

VANCOUVER (CP)—An economist from eastern Canada said Friday he sees prosperity on the streets of Vancouver.

Dr. Anthony Wintermans, associate professor of economics at St. Francis Xavier University in Nova Scotia, said: "The difference in affluence between B.C. and the Maritimes is very, very obvious and you can even see it in the people on the streets."

Dr. Wintermans said B.C.'s development is staggering. He said his own province has a "retarded economy" but is developing methods of dealing with its problems.

Bennett Calls Sept. 12 Election

'PEOPLE DESERVE CHANCE TO SPEAK'

By H. L. JONES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett Friday night called a provincial election for Sept. 12, the fifth since his Social Credit government first came to power in British Columbia in 1952.

He also announced that one of his major cabinet ministers, Health Minister Eric Martin, will not run because of ill health.

Mr. Bennett said at a press conference following his reading of a 13-minute election announcement that the opposition parties do not want an election. He said Robert Strachan, leader of the New Democratic Party, and Liberal leader Ray

'Human Betterment' Campaign Promise By Social Credit

By TERRY ROBERTS

The lid is off a pot of election speculation that has been boiling in British Columbia for six months.

Premier Bennett declared the pot ready Friday night and presented his menu to voters: if you want to taste the goodies, put in your order at the polls Sept. 12.

Mr. Bennett has not yet presented his full menu — he will probably save most of his tidbits for the campaign trail — but announcements earlier this year indicate a trend toward what he terms "human betterment."

This program is a switch that began during the last legislature away from his former emphasis on highways and economic development.

The new program involves hospitals, medical care, education and other like fields.

Bookie, Pals Become Cripple's Angels

LONDON (AP)—Bookie Joseph Smith and his friends came to the rescue Thursday night of a widowed polio victim who was fined £2 ($5) for driving her children to their babysitter in her one-seater invalid carriage.

Smith and his friends raised enough money to buy Freda Blyth a five-seater car and have it converted so it can be driven by hands alone.

A driving school in nearby Bracknell, where Mrs. Blyth and Smith live, promised her free instructions so she can qualify for a licence to operate her new car.

And Will Field started a campaign in Newbury for funds to services the car as long as Mrs. Blyth keeps it.

"The kindness of it all," said Mrs. Blyth, "Why, I just broke down and cried."

Mrs. Blyth said she had to work six hours a day as a secretary to support her children and had to leave them with a friend who lives two miles from her. She said she had little money and has asked the government for a disabled person's car but was told she could only qualify for the one-seater carriage.
